SPEAKING of the "war maps," so called, which many newspapers are now printing and which appear to be Chinese puzzles, a contemporary says: "They are very easily made. A HAVANA LETTER of the 21st gives the following account of the funeral of Mrs. Biddle, of Philadelphia, wife of the American Consul General at Havana: Mrs. Biddle died on Monday morning, July 18, at her residence in the Cerro, a suburb of this city, of yellow fever, after a sickness of but a week, and her funeral took place the same afternoon. The flags of the Consulate and American vessels in port were at half mast. British Consul General Dunlop read the Episcopal service at the residence in an impressive manner, the Consuls of different nations residing in Havana being present, besides Captain General Rodas, represented by an aid-de-camp; Major Roberts, General Rodas' political secretary, Mr. Cezareo Fernandez, the intendente, Mr. Santos, and many of the principal merchants of Havana. A profusion of tropical flowers covered the metalic coffin enclosing the corpse. A long procession of carriages filled with mourners followed the hearse to the cemetery, where the body was deposited in a niche. In accordance with custom no ladies were present. Mrs. Biddle leaves four children under eight years to mourn their irreparable loss. Seldom does such an imposing cortege accompany one to Campo Santo in this city as in this case. Mr. Biddle has yellow fever, but is recovering, and will probably return north soon on leave of absence."

A Chinaman's Revenge.

A tragical affair of Woosung (at the mouth of the river) gives us another view of the Chinese officials and soldiery. Through some petty disturbance in an opium shop kept by some fascinating native ladies, two men belonging to one of the Chinese gunboats stationed there, were sentenced by the mandarin in charge of the fleet to an indefinite number of blows, which were duly inflicted. Smarting under the severe treatment, one of the victims vowed vengeance. He watched his opportunity, and in the middle of the following day, when the mandarin was, according to his custom, locked in the arms of Morpheus, he stole into his cabin and buried the fatal blade in his heart. Seizing the body in his arms before an alarm could be given, he carried it on deck and plunged with it into the muddy waters of the Wung poo, then running a strong ebb. The tidal stream carried the bodies as far as the North Spit, where at low water they were found, the mandarin locked in the death grasp of his assassin.—Shanghai Cor. N. Y. Tribune.

Dr. Livingstone.

A curious story has been circulated in Detroit, Michigan, in reference to the unusually protracted stay of Dr. Livingstone, the African explorer, in the interior of Africa. Dr. Livingstone, it is alleged, was, much against his wish, persuaded to marry a rude and blustering native princess, who, with her father and mother, prevent his further prosecution of topographical investigations. This story was received in a letter written by a lady now traveling in Syria, and who obtained the information from Capt. Burton, British Consul at Damascus, Syria. Capt. Burton says that this obstruction in Livingstone's path, has until now been concealed by his friends. Capt. Burton himself, it is stated, is married to the handsomest woman in England, so that he cannot be excited by envy in starting this story, and, as he speaks fourteen different languages fluently, his capacity for telling the truth is considerable.

Two Weapons.

THE FRENCH MITRAILLEUR.

The Mitrailleur, which is as yet untried in practical warfare, is considered by the French as the most destructive military weapon known. Recently, three hundred wretched horses, already condemned to the poleax, were purchased at the rate of four or five francs each, and ranged at a considerable distance. Two mitrailleures were brought to play on them, and in three minutes after two discharges not one of the animals remained standing. On a second occasion, five hundred horses were brought down at a single trial. This formidable weapon is constructed as follows:

It is a light 37 barrelled gun, so arranged that its barrels may be discharged simultaneously, or consecutively. The 37 cartridges, intended for one charge, are contained in a small box. A steel plate, with corresponding holes, is placed on the open box, which is then reversed, and the cartridges fall points foremost into their respective holes. They are prevented from falling through by the rims at their bases. The loaded plate is then introduced into the breech-slot, and when the breech is closed by a lever, a number of steel pins, pressed by spiral springs, are only prevented from striking the percussion arrangement in the cartridges by a plate in front of them. When this case is moved slowly by a handle, the cartridges are fired one by one. If the plate be withdrawn rapidly they follow each other so quickly that their discharge is all but simultaneous. The invention seems very well adapted for use in forts or other permanent places of defence or offence, but its carriage and management in the field would present many and insuperable obstacles to its general use.

WALL RIFLE.

It is claimed by the French that the Chassepot is an improvement on the Zuendnadelgewehr, and, as long as the latter served them as a model, they are probably all right there.

All of a sudden one hears, however, of several new inventions quietly introduced by Prussia, and first amongst them a gun which can be fired twenty-two times a minute with ease, and said to be a decided improvement on both the Zuendnadelgewehr and the Chassepot. In connection with this they have a improved arrangement for carrying 200 rounds of ammunition.

The superiority of this new gun becomes at once self-evident, inasmuch as the present needle gun can only be fired off about ten or twelve times a minute and a soldier carries only sixty rounds of ammunition.

It is, therefore, at least twice as effective as their present style of needle-gun, and a considerable number of them have already been manufactured and are ready to be distributed among the army. Another new invention of which the Prussians seem to think much is a kind of heavy and very large rifle with a cast steel barrel four and a half feet long, and mounted on two light wheels very much like a piece of artillery.

It is named the wall buechse or wall rifle, probably because a similiar very heavy and long rifle had been in use during the middle age for the defence of the walls and turrets of castles and other fortifications. This wall rifle has been distributed extensively among the infantry, every batalion of which now has a number of them. It is aimed and fired off by a soldier kneeling behind it, and catching the recoil, in order to steady the aim, by means of a padded cushion or saddle. The distance at which this new gun carries is very great, the same as that of the heaviest artillery. It shoots with great precision, and seems to be more particularly destined to be used against the enemy's artillery, for the killing of the men serving the guns, their horses, and the explosion of amunition chests, although it may also be used against infantry and cavalry. The projectile is two and a half inches long, of cast-iron, hollow, and filled with a highly explosive substance. It explodes however, only when it strikes with its point, which is furnished with a slightly projecting knob pressing a needle into the charge, and thus causing an immediate explosion.

What the "Secret Treaty" Means.

[From the Philadelphia Ledger.]

It is not without cause that Great Britain is excited over the disclosures concerning the "Secret Treaty," as the memorandum of the conversations between Bismarck on the one side, and Napoleon and Benedetti on the other, is called. It is a renewal of the alarm produced by the "absorption" of the Netherlands by France in 1795. The great crime of the French Revolution in the eyes of Pitt was not so much the creation of a republic to overthrow the political systems of Europe, as the incorporation of the Netherlands with France. This acquisition gave to the mortal enemy of England not only a fertile and wealthy province, but a district rich in manufacturing resources and industries. It gave that enemy control of the mouths of the Scheldt, the Meuse, and the Rhine, rivers commanding the commerce of the North. It gave her seaports of great importance, the chief of the list being Antwerp; and finally it extended the maritime frontier of France, so as to cover and threaten the English coasts of Essex, Suffolk and Norfolk, which were comparatively defenceless. Further, if this absorption should extend to the Texel, the English coast would be largely encompassed by a hostile shore. The danger from this annexation of Belgium to France in the days of the Revolution was so formidable, that Pitt overlooked his hatred to the Republic, and his refusal to recognize it, by sending Lord Malmsbury on an extraordinary mission to France in 1870, to negotiate for the restoration of the Netherlands, and was willing that both England and her allies should make "compensations," by giving up part of their acquisitions to accomplish a point he had so much at heart, and which he held to be of such vital importance to his country. The French Directory, perfectly aware of the cause of his alarm, and as well aware of the great advantage of the Netherlands and the Rhine frontier to France, amused Lord Malmsbury for a while by listening to his propositions, and then held on to the Netherlands—and France continued to hold the country as long as she could maintain her ground by force of arms.

It is this same spectre of France in possession of that important line of coast, that rich manufacturing kingdom, the mouths of those commercial rivers, so alarming to the younger Pitt, which is again conjured up by the publication of the sketch of the proposed or alleged basis of a "secret treaty." No wonder there is excitement in England, and catechising of the Ministry in Parliament, (the Premier answering with "pallid lips") and fierce demands for explanations in the newspapers. Prussia may absorb Hanover, and extinguish minor States by the dozen; Austria and Prussia combined may trample down gallant little Denmark; but for France to "rectify her frontier" by absorbing Belgium—why that is quite another thing. England looks upon that with quite a different eye from the complacent regard with which she contemplated the threatened dismemberment of the United States.

We may share England's aversion to this threat to extinguish the nationality of Belgium without sympathizing with her motives. With her it is simply self-interest; with us it should be reluctance to see an industrious, peaceable, worthy people deprived of their independence by an ambitious and powerful neighbor. We have no doubt that the consolidation of Belgium with France is on the programme of the French Emperor, neutral or not neutral as Belgium may be. It is the cherished faith of France that her frontier should be nearly coincident with the frontier of ancient Gaul. It has been made so on the south by the annexation of Nice and Savoy, and neither her people nor the present dynasty will ever rest contented until it be made so on the northeast. It is a maxim in France that the frontier of the Rhine must become a part of the international law of Europe, because, as some of her public men assert, the boundary which was hers in her Celtic and Roman days was traced by the hand of Providence.

Emperor's Proclamation to the Army.

The following is the proclamation of the Emperor to the army on assuming command in person:

Soldiers: I come to take my place at your head. To defend the honor and soil of our country, you go to combat against one of the best armed of European countries; but other countries as valiant as they have not been able to resist your valor. It will be the same to-day. The war which now commences will be long and hotly contested, for its theatre will be places hedged with obstructions and thick with fortresses, but nothing is beyond persevering efforts. Soldiers of Africa, Italy, and Mexico, you will prove once more what a French army is able to accomplish, as cemented by sentiment of duty, maintained by discipline, and influenced by love of country. Whatever road we may take across our frontiers, we will find upon it the glorious traces of our fathers, and we will show ourselves worthy of them. All France follows you with pledges, and the eyes of the universe are upon you. Upon our success depends the fate of liberty and civilization. Soldiers, let each one do his duty, and the God of battles will be with us.

News from Berlin.

BERLIN, July 29.—Count Bismarck has dispatched to the English Government the text of the offer made by France, in 1866, to join Prussia in a war against Austria, in return for the cession to her, by Prussia, of the district lying between the Rhine and Moselle.

The Prussian Government has also declined to allow foreign military officers at its army headquarters.

The North German Gazette says of English neutrality: England supplies France with cartridges with which to slaughter Germans.

The tone of the Prussian press is one of dissatisfaction with the neutrality of England, and the policy of the latter Government of abstinence from interference in the Continental complications is severely reproached as being cold and indifferent.

Prussians Massing Near Coblentz—French Moving from Metz.

COBLENTZ, July 29.—The Prussians are massing in force toward Neuwied, about eight miles from this city. The concentration of troops in that quarter and the vicinity of the fortress of Ehrenbreitenstein is very great, and the Divisions are held in readiness to march to the north or south. Large bodies of French troops are leaving the camp at Metz taking a northeasterly direction. This indicates a move toward the defences at Sarlouis.

What Austria is Doing.

VIENNA, July 29.—The Austrian Government has empowered the National bank to treat bills upon foreign houses to the extent of thirty millions as a part of the cash reserve required for their circulation.

The Times says the drain of gold is subsiding. The amount now on the way here from New York will go a long way to counteract the tendency of pressure in the money market.

Press Restrictions.

The French papers are furious at the restrictions placed on war news by the Government.

Eugenie Toasts Thiers.

The Empress, on returning from St. Cloud, toasted M. Thiers, under whose administration the fortifications of Paris were constructed, whereby France is to-day enabled to send one hundred thousand more men to the field than she otherwise could.

Parliament will adjourn on the 11th of August.

The Times has an article on the recall of Mr. Motley. The writer says: Fickleness is the reproach of republics. Motley has been here two years, long enough to be endeared to every Englishman, and now is recalled. Motley is respected, not particularly because he is an American, but as a man. It is a matter of congratulation that his recall, however unworthy the motive, gives him back to literature.

MURDER OF A BROKER.

Benjamin Nathan, a prominent broker in New York, was murdered by burglars at his residence Thursday night. The house was entered for the purpose of robbery, and a safe in Mr. Nathan's room was forced open and a number of bonds stolen. The instrument used to commit the murder was an ax, and the struggle must have been terrific. There were evidently a number of persons engaged in the deed. Suspicion rests on a number of workmen who were engaged lately in repairing the house. Mr. Nathan was President of the Mount Sinai Hospital, and was a very prominent and wealthy citizen. The Stock Exchange, of which Mr. Nathan was a member, offers ten thousand dollars reward for the apprehension of the murderer.

The murder of Mr. Nathan has created an excitement almost equal to that of the Burdell tragedy. The scene of the murder is an elegant brown stone mansion near Fifth avenue. The head of deceased was covered with wounds, the face discolored and swollen, night shirt saturated with blood and body and legs smeared with it. The door and wall were also covered with blood, as though there had been a desperate struggle. The bones of two of fingers of the right hand were fractured, as if he had clutched the assassin, and been struck to make him loosen his hold. The wounds number nine, and the skull in all parts was completely shattered. No arrests have been made, nor is there the slightest clue to the perpetrators. It is generally believed that robbery only was intended, but being discovered by Mr. Nathan the robbers beat him to death. It is believed the murderers concealed themselves in the house yesterday, as all the doors and windows were secured except the front door, by which they escaped. Mr. Nathan is understood to be worth two million dollars. A coroner's jury was impannelled for the inquest.

Measures will be taken for the relief of the families of the men washed overboard from the Dauntless. Mr. Ashbury signifies his intention of giving a purse.

TAKING OUT LETTERS TO SAIL UNDER THE AMERICAN FLAG.

The German ship Etha Kickinoss, and the barks Kalga and Sirene, loading for Antwerp, have, under an old law of the United States, taken out sea letters to sail under the American flag. Other vessels owned partially by the Germans here are expected to pursue the same course.

A RUMOR AND CONTRADICTION.

The Post has a rumor that Capt. Samuels, of the Dauntless, has disappeared, and says that he is believed to have lost $30,000 on the race, and committed suicide. The Commercial contradicts the story, and says the Captain is in town in good health.

APPLICATIONS TO GERMAN CONSUL.

About fifty to seventy-five applications have been made to the German Consul for assistance to return to Germany.

STEAMERS ARRIVED.

The steamers Union and Australia have arrived from Europe.

THE CAPITAL.

[By Telegraph to Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, July 29th, 1870.

FREE BANKS.

Several applications have been made to the Comptroller of Currency under the new law for authority to organize free banks. Probably the first new bank established will be of that description.

BONDS TO BE DESTROYED.

Secretary Boutwell has ordered the destruction of $129,802,650 of United States Bonds, heretofore purchased for special and sinking funds, in conformity with the sixth section of the Act for funding the National Debt. This reduces the outstanding principal of coin debt by that amount.

INTERNAL REVENUE.

The receipts of Internal Revenue for July were $2,000,000.

THE WEST.

The Big Horn Expedition—Bodies of Murdered Miners Discovered.

CHEYENNE, WY., July 29.—The Leader publishes a letter to-day from a member of the Big Horn expedition, near Gray Bull River Gully, July 19, five hundred miles from Cheyenne. The letter says they have not gone on the reservation, nor do they intend doing so. All are well and they are just commencing to prospect.

Mr. H. M. Plumb, who has just returned from Bear River mines, reports finding the bodies of three more white men killed by Indians in the North Park. The bodies were identified as those of Joseph Brum, Frank Marion and an old man named Scott, all trappers. It is the settled opinion of the best informed that the Utes are responsible for these murders.

Caught at Stealing Cable News.

[By Telegraph to Pittsburgh Gazette.]

CHICAGO, July 29.—General Anson Stager, General Superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph, received word this morning from his California agent of the detention and arrest Wednesday night, at Sacramento, of Van Valkenburg, manager of the Atlantic and Pacific office at that city, for stealing Associated Press news. Since the commencement of the war excitement in Europe operators of the Atlantic and Pacific telegraph lines and agents of the American Press Association have been industrious in stealing cable news at all important points, but especially so west of Chicago. This has been done with so much success that opposition journals accused the Associated Press papers of stealing from them their own reports. Being satisfied how the matter was, Mr. Gamble, of the Western Union office, undertook to work the case up, and succeeded so well as to detect the agent of the Atlantic and Pacific in the act as above stated. Van Valkenburg was immediately arrested and will be made an example of.

The Michigan Legislature.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

DETROIT, July 29.—In the Michigan Legislature to-day no business of importance was done. The railroad question is still before the joint special committees of the two Houses to which it was referred, and they were still further hearing arguments and suggestions. It is understood that the chairmen of the two committees are now engaged in drawing up a report which will probably be submitted to-morrow.

Skirmishing But no Battle Yet.

LONDON, July 29—11 P. M.—From the seat of war the latest reports are that skirmishing is going on between the outposts, but not even a rumor of a battle is received.

French Fleet at Copenhagen—Cavalry Advance Over the Frontier.

LONDON, July 29, Midnight.—The French fleet arrived at Copenhagen.

The French cavalry passed the frontier at Perl, but soon returned.

Peace Efforts Postponed Till After Battle.

The Paris correspondent of the Daily News partially contradicts the peace rumors he gave yesterday. All hopes are postponed until after battle.

General Movement of the Prussian Forces.

BERLIN, July 29.—A general movement of the Prussian forces in front of the French line has commenced, and it is evident decisive operations are near at hand. Troops are rushing on to Mayence from all directions.

England Bitterly Complained of.

England's violation of neutrality, in supplying articles contraband of war to France, is bitterly complained of.

Great Excitement at Metz—French Hurrying Up Operations.

METZ, July 29.—Great excitement prevails. The news that the Prussians are moving causes a general hurrying forward of French operations. There is little doubt the main body will strike through Rheinish Bavaria and an advance of Prussians on the left is expected. The French will pay in gold for everything they take in the enemy's country. The Prussian Government has suppressed a large number of journals.

Excitement in England—Government Action Adverse to Popular Sentiment.

LONDON, July 29.—The popular excitement at the course of the British Government in the present war is very great. The people want notice given to France that England views with grief and displeasure intrigues evidently having for their aim the violation of the independence of Belgium, and will oppose with their whole strength any attempt to extend French power on the Continent before or after the war. The British Government, on the other hand, while condemning France for breaking the peace, closes her eyes to the large purchases of coal and ammunition made in Europe for the French army.

Bismarck Rouses the British Lion.

The Post, in a double-leaded leader, angrily comments on Bismarck's language in his organ, the British Gazette, in regard to the alleged violation of neutrality. And calls it a direct threat against England. It adds that Prussian boasting, stories and lies will before long be correctly estimated. It does not believe France covets Belgium, and declares England will remain fairly neutral as long as Prussia withholds her hands from neutral territory.

An Intrigue Officially Divulged.

LONDON, July 29.—Count Bernstoff, Prussian Ambassador to England, to-day makes public the statement that France, in 1866, offered to lend Prussia 300,000 men to use against Austria, if Prussia would surrender to France the territory between the Rhine and Moselle. The rejection of this proposition by Prussia awoke the Emperor's sympathy with Austria.

German Hatred of England.

The German press continue bitter attacks on England. If their declarations can be trusted, this country has bought her neutrality of Germany at the cost of German hate.

The Secret Treaty Again.

Earl Granville, in the Lords to-night, admitted that he had received a dispatch containing a copy of the secret treaty published in the Times, but he had assurances of the French Ambassador that the proposal originated in Berlin, and was declined by France.

In the Commons Mr. Stapleton gave notice of the question whether England was actually supplying coal to the French fleet.

LONDON, July 29.—Marquis Lavellette's assurances to Earl Granville, in reply to Bismarck's dispatch, were received in Parliament with general distrust. There is no doubt whatever that Monday's debate in the Commons will reveal England in the attitude of resolute hostility to designs from every quarter affecting Belgium. The Government's policy of caution cannot be maintained much longer without being regarded as timidity. Their supporters will compel straightforward declarations.

The Daily News says there will be no longer opposition, as a unanimous Parliament will recognize but one party, that of the country. Without distrusting the good will either of France or Prussia, it does not do to depend on either. England must depend on herself.

French Offical Reports from the Army.

PARIS, July 29, Evening.—The following official reports from the army are published:

The Prussian troops are making onerous requisitions on the country they occupy. They take horses of farmers, cut down trees and trample standing crops.

During a thunderstorm the head quarters of the division of General Lorence was struck by lightning and three officers injured.

All the prisoners so far taken have been sent to Orleans, where accommodations are provided.

A False Report.

LONDON, July 29.—A report of the violation of the Luxembourg territory was an absurd exaggeration. A French corporal crossed the river from Sierre, with some fellow soldiers, in search of tobacco. Their appearance gave rise to a report of invasion.

Reward for the Mitrailleur.

The Prussian Government offers a reward of five thousand thalers to the first soldier who captures a Mitrailleur.

French Paper Money.

In financial circles here the project for a forced circulation of paper money in France are condemned as equivalent, if adopted, to National bankruptcy.

England Quietly, But Actively, Preparing.

LONDON, July 29.—The British Government is quietly but actively preparing to meet any emergency. All the dock yards and arsenals are busy day and night. Supplementary estimates for army and navy are expected.

Italy and France.

The story is repeated that France promises Italy sixty million livres for her fidelity, besides the evacuation of Rome.

Newspaper Correspondents Arrested as Spies.

PARIS, July 29.—At Metz to-day several newspaper correspondents, most of them American and English, were arrested as spies. They were liberated, however, but warned to keep away from the army in future.

Prussian Advice to Belgium.

BERLIN, July 29.—The Berlin Correspondence, semi-official, says Belgium has been enlightened by the publication as to the greed of France and her own interests. If Germany is conquered by France, Belgium is lost. Belgium is in a position to oblige Napoleon to pursue without result the war begun without motive. If she is firm, Germany will protect Belgian frontiers.

French Organizations for Local Defense.

PARIS, July 29.—The Journal Officiel contains the following report from Ministers of War and Interior to the Emperor: The government has authorized the organization of Local National Guards on the frontier towns of the North and East, but the government thinks it necessary to renounce the idea of the organization of a general National Guard. Meanwhile the government believes the companies of French volunteer sharpshooters, established more extensively than at present, will constitute a valuable reserve for the protection of the national territory. The two Ministers propose that the engagement of these companies of sharpshooters shall be limited to the actual term of war and that volunteers admitted with these bodies shall be specially charged with local defense.

News Arrangements in Germany.

BERLIN, July 29.—The Government has recognized the Continental Telegraph Bureau of Berlin as its official reporter. The Bureau of war bulletins will be posted throughout Germany. This establishment is the principal agency in Germany for supplying the Associated Press exclusively with news for the press of America.

Scarcity of Food and Forage—Fortifications in Readiness.

PARIS, July 29.—Food and forage are said to be scarce in Germany.

The following fortresses are placed in a thorough state of readiness for offence and defence: Metz, Thionville, Longwy, Monssal, Phalsbourg, Schlettstadts, Newbeysach, Belfort, Diehsemberg, La Petite, Piorre, Montmedy, Verdum and Eatcy and the fortifications of Strasbourg.

A New York lady of fortune, residing in Paris, has volunteered as a nurse.

Immense sums are being subscribed for the wounded.

The Landwehr not Enthusiastic.

LONDON, July 29.—It is reported the Landwehr respond sluggishly to the summons to come forward.

Discontent in Vienna.

There is much discontent in Vienna at the neutrality of Austria.

German Ships and French Cruisers.

The ship Doctor Barth, from New York for Hamburg, put into a British port to avoid the French cruisers. The bark Meridian, from Philadelphia for Bremen, arrived at Bremen haven and was overhauled by a French man-of-war, but suffered to proceed.

Bank of France Will not Issue Paper Money.

PARIS, July 29.—The Journal Officiel says efforts have been made to create the impression that a scheme is broached for the issue of paper money, and that the bank is inclined to favor it. Nothing can be further from the truth.

Spanish Neutrality Proclaimed.

MADRID, July 29.—The Gazette publishes the proclamation of neutrality issued by the Spanish Government. The severity with which the French authorities treated the Carlists on the border causes much gratitude.

The Fighting on the Outposts on Thursday.

SAARBRUCKEN, July 29.—The success of the Prussians in the affair of the outposts yesterday is admitted by the enemy. The French retired after a few rounds of cannon and musketry.

Latest from Paris.

PARIS, July 29.—Evening. Two persons were arrested at Besancon for exporting gold to Prussia. One had 40,000 francs in gold, which he professed to be taking to a banker in Basle.

M. K. Laeyko, director of the Department of Foreign Affairs at Vienna, an avowed adversary of Prussia, has arrived in Paris.

A council of Ministers was held at St. Cloud to-day. The Empress presided.

NEWS DIRECT FROM GERMANY.

A New York Tribune special correspondent at Frankfort writes on Wednesday: All civilians in Berlin were obliged to decide on last Saturday whether they would leave or remain until further notice, which might be for a fortnight at least. Since last Saturday all the railways have been used for the exclusive transportation of the military. I reached Frankfort with great difficulty in thirty-six hours instead of eleven, the usual time.

The whole country is occupied by war preparations, and the moving of military trains.

Great Battle Imminent on French Soil.

The beginning of strategy movements is at hand. The German programme is neither inactive or expectation. The army will speedily assume the offensive and a great battle is iminent on French soil.

The Mayence Fortifications.

Two thousand men are strengthening the Mayence fortifications, declared incapable of resisting a sudden attack a fortnight ago. They can now stand a long siege and furnish a base for offensive operations.

The report that the Prussian King would make Frankfort his headquarters is improbable.

Enthusiasm in Munich.

Special correspondence from Munich reports the city full of Prussian soldiers and enthusiastic demonstrations were made in their favor. All houses offer lodgings for troops.

LATEST REPORTS FROM PARIS.

General Sheridan Will not be Allowed to Accompany the French Army.

PARIS, July 29.—It is reported that General Sheridan, coming from America, will be refused leave to accompany the army.

The American Feeling in Paris.

The American feeling here has been misrepresented. No French journal dares to republish the Daily News telegram describing the general sympathy of America with Prussia.

Loyalty of Prince Napoleon Doubted.

It is reported Prince Napoleon was obliged to accompany the Emperor as a precaution against his possible disloyalty in case of defeat. An independent command was denied him.

Cabinet Change in Belgium Demanded.

The Liberal party has published an address declaring the present Clerical Cabinet of Belgium incapable and must be replaced by another sympathizing with the popular resolution to preserve the independence of the kingdom.

MOB LAW.

A Serious Affair at Shelbyville, Ill—Fearful Scene at an Execution—Bloodshed Fortunately Avoided.

ST. LOUIS, July 29.—The Times has a long account of a riot at Shelbyville, Ill., to-day, on the occasion of the execution of James Meyers for the murder of Plebasso Calhoun, about two years ago. Hubbard Holden, who was to be hanged with Meyers for the same crime, had his sentence commuted yesterday by Governor Palmer, which created great indignation, as it is said Holden planned the murder and actually did the shooting. It was feared on Thursday night that the populace would attack the jail and release Myers unless Governor Palmer surrendered Holden to the gallows, but through the agency of some influential citizens better counsels prevailed and there was a lull in the storm till this morning, when it broke out again with greater violence. The mob demanded that both men be hung or that Myers be released. Gov. Palmer was vehemently denounced on every hand. The jail was guarded by upwards of one hundred armed men, and while preparations were making to hang Myers several attempts were made to tear down the fence inclosing the scaffold. But the assailants were repulsed each time by the guards. Myers was executed, and in less than ten minutes after the mob charged the fence in force, and commenced tearing it down, but when they discovered it was too late to save Myers they dispersed, swearing eternal enmity to Governor Palmer. Had it not been for conciliatory speeches by several leading citizens a frightful scene of bloodshed might have resulted.

Buffalo.

BUFFALO, July 29.—The cattle market for the past week was decidedly flat and the receipts lighter than any previous week this year. Owing to low offers, butchers compelled holders to send their stock through to the east. Sales made to-day: 100 Iowa steers at $8.25@8.33 and Illinois at $7.75. Receipts for the week 357 cars and shipments 183 cars per the Central Railroad, and 98 cars per the Erie Railroad. The market closed unsteady at yesterday's quotations. Sheep firm at last week's quotations: Canada lambs were entirely sold off, the best quality at 6⅞c. Hogs firm at 9@9¾c for common to good shipping and butchers' stock; very little trade in selections.

Exciting Scene on the Seine.

[From the London Daily News, July 5.]

The novel sight of a hippopotamus swimming about in the Seine was witnessed yesterday with almost as much alarm as wonder, by hundreds of people on the river in the neighborhood of the Pont d' Austerlitz. The drought has so reduced the water supply in the cisterns of the Jardin des Plantes, that for some days past the hippopotamus has not been able to take his bath in the gardens. His keepers take him on a low wagon drawn by two horses to the banks of the Seine, and let him go into the river as far as the length of a strong iron chain attached to his neck will allow. The hippopotamus grew so strong upon his healthy swimming that yesterday he broke his chain, struck out, got into the middle of the stream, and produced a tremendous panic among the boats, which his whale-like bulk threatened to upset. In his frolic he lifted his nose to the height of the paddle-box of a steamer, and set all the passengers screaming. His approach cleared in a jiffey a washer-woman's barge and the Austerlitz bathing establishment. Half a hundred small boats went in pursuit of him. Several keepers succeeded in getting on his back, but he got rid of them by plunging. After a long and exciting hunt one of the keepers got hold of a link of the broken chain which remained attached to his neck, slipped a strong rope through it, and then got sufficient assistance to haul him ashore.

SATURDAY, JULY 30, 1870.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 120¼@120¼.

ENGLAND will endeavor to preserve her neutrality. Bismarck would like to force her into the complication but thus far his efforts in that direction have been unsuccessful.

WAR has had a disturbing influence on the business of the larger European cities. Many heavy failures have already occurred and many more will follow.

IT is not improbable that the first great battle between the Prussian and French armies will be fought to-morrow, (Sunday). The movement of troops on both sides indicate that an immediate blow will be struck.

IF it is true that there are to be no withdrawals from the "new party" ticket, there is considerable curiosity to know why certain German citizens have been solicited to allow their names to be placed on it. If this is denied we are prepared to give names.

TWO THOUSAND ONE HUNDRED and twenty-eight pounds of mail matter was received one day last week at the Louisville Postoffice, addressed to different persons and all franked from Washington by a member of Congress. Glorious is the franking privilege.

AMERICAN BONDS slightly advanced yesterday in the New York market. The avidity with which our securities are taken as collaterals in the foreign markets for loans is gratifying and seems to indicate that no great amount of bonds will be returned to this country, as an immediate effect of the war.

WE have been assured by some of the candidates on the bolters' ticket that it will be withdrawn. This we assert beyond fear of contradicton. We have nothing to say to sheets that "give the lie." We are willing, however, at all times to discuss any subject of importance with any gentleman in a gentlemanly way. If any "falsehoods" have been "coined," they have been coined by the reformers. We know what we affirm.

No one in this office has received any communication or message, either written or verbal, from the Hon. Simon Cameron. No one has written one word in this journal at his dictation, nor has any one conveyed to us his wishes in relation to any subject that now occupies the attention of the political parties of this county. Any one who insinuates anything to the contrary is too base to be characterized in these columns. The proprietors of the GAZETTE are their own masters, and are not subjected to the humiliation of being dictated to by stockholders, who never receive dividends, nor by any others.

THE CHINESE QUESTION.

It seems as if we were never going to get rid of the war of races in this country. The contest is renewed on every occasion that furnishes the slightest pretext. The nation has been agitated and convulsed to its center for many long years by a war against the African, and it seems now as if it were going to be the scene of a battle over the Mongolian. At a large meeting held in California a short time since, a war of extermination was threatened upon the Chinese, who have rendered most valuable service in building the Pacific Railroad, and given such high promise of becoming skillful manipulators of the pegging-awl in Massachusetts. The true animus of a certain class of people in this country against the Chinese laborer is seen in the following resolutions which were adopted at the meeting referred to:

> Resolved, That we form ourselves into an organization, both military and civil, in order to maintain our rights as freemen, and rid the State of pestilential Chinese.
> Resolved, That we wish our representatives at Washington to inform that intelligent body of law-makers, that, if they will not pass laws to protect and aid us from the further immigration of these barbarous slaves, we will make both laws and law-makers as is our constitutional right to so do.

The principle contained in these resolutions is radically anti-American—it is revolutionary. One great object of our government has been to encourage immigration, which has proved to be one of the chief sources of our national aggrandizement. So vital has it been deemed to be to our national development and prosperity, circulars have been addressed again and again by the government to our representatives in other countries, instructing them to hold out every possible inducement to emigrants.

But it is said that these Chinese are a barbarous and uncivilized people. It is true that their civilization is of a different type from ours, but if we are to believe the testimony of distinguished missionaries, who have spent many years in China, the inhabitants are not a barbarous people. At the sixty-fifth anniversary of the London Missionary Society held some years since in the British Metropolis, the celebrated interpreter of prophecy, Dr. John Cumming, made use of the following language: "I do feel that China has claims not inferior to those of India. It is more barbarous and perhaps more wicked than India. The Rev. Dr. Legge, a returned missionary from China, being present, rose immediately and said, "I am astonished at the statement of Dr. Cumming, that China is more barbarous than India. In the beginning of last year I was present in the literary palace at Canton, on the occasion of an anniversary meeting, at which the young men of the province of Canton assembled to compete for literary degrees, and in that one building there were more apartments for students than in any University in the British Empire." "It is true," said Dr. Legge, "that their civilization is very different from ours, but they are far, far removed from barbarism." The Chinese empire numbers about four hundred millions of people, and when we bear in mind that they have been living and flourishing there, for some four thousand years—that they have preserved a national existence—whilst other nations possessing elements of a higher character, perhaps, such as the Assyrian, Persian, Grecian and Roman, and even more modern empires, have risen and culminated and decayed, it is apparent that there must be, as Dr. Legge declared, among that people, certain moral and social principles of the "greatest virtue and power," and if so the more of them that are transplanted into American soil, the better for them and the better for us. The country which invented the mariner's compass and gunpowder, must be a slight remove from barbarism.

But it is said students do not emerge from their literary cells in the academic palace at Canton and come to this country, we get the lowest and most debased of the Mongolian race. This is to a great extent true. But it was true also of the original immigrants to this country from the British isles. "The early colonists of Virginia were mainly adventurers of an unusually bad type—bankrupt prodigals, genteel spendthrifts and incorrigible profligates, many of whom had left their country for that country's good, in obedience to the urgent persuasions of sheriffs, judges and juries." A great change has taken place in this respect. Some of the very best citizens, and the most profitable to us—the middle class—of the Old World land every week on our shores. Let emigration from China be encouraged, and there will soon be as marked a change in the type of immigrants that will come from that country. In fact, the change is already visible. But if John Chinaman shall be insulted as he has been in Massachusetts, and denounced as "pestilential" in California, there will not be much encouragement given to the better class of Celestials to come to the United States.

We have nothing to do with the nationality of the persons who passed the resolutions quoted above. Perhaps they were of mixed nationalities. So much the worse, and so much the more inconsistent and absurd their conduct. If the Chinese are threatened with extermination vi et armis, how long may it be till the Irish and Germans, and those of other nationalities may have the same threat held over their heads? If men become leagued together to drive our nationality out of the country, they may resolve to "rid" themselves of all nationalities, except those who are native and to the manor born. It is a dangerous experiment, and the principle incorporated in the California resolutions is alike opposed to the traditional policy of the United States government, and the will of the sovereign Ruler of the world, who hath made of one blood all nations of men to dwell upon the whole face of the earth, without designating any particular locality for any particular race. Men frequently act upon the principle that they are the creators of nations, while the earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof, the world and they that dwell therein. This being the case, the people of any quarter of the globe have a right to remove their residence to any other, and enjoy its immunities and privileges so long as they conform themselves to its laws and regulations, and labor to promote its interests.

If the principle evolved in the California resolutions is the correct one, then any branch of industry has a right to organize an opposition to the introduction of any persons into the same field of operation, and thus inflate prices by curtailing the supply. The consequences of such an organization in any branch of human industry are apparent to all.

Since the first organization of our Government, not less than eight millions of immigrants have swelled our population, one-fourth of whom have arrived during the last ten years. What has been the result? National improvement and a depreciation in the price of labor. Not by any means. The country was never more prosperous, never abounded in more national wealth, nor did labor, except during the war, ever command a higher price than at present. Amidst the mighty influx of immigrants the wealth of the country has been increasing almost in geometrical progression, and the price of labor has been bounding upwards. Why then this wholesale proscription of laborers from whatever country they may come? There are many forests yet to subdue, many acres of virgin soil to be broken up, and many wastes to be reclaimed. We have room enough and work enough for many years for all the immigrants the orient can supply. And, whilst we oppose with all our might a system of organized immigration, which is but a slight remove from African slavery, of which the nation is now happily rid, let us encourage immigrants from every clime who are willing either by manual labor or skilful artizanship to add to the material and permanent prosperity of the nation.

We are opposed to the proscription of men either on account of their nationality or religion. We bid a hearty welcome to the emigrant whether he be Protestant or Catholic, Jew or Greek, Mohammedan or Buddhist. There is room enough and work enough, and ample compensation for the labor and industry of all, and they will derive no small and lasting benefit by coming here, and conforming, as they must do, to the laws and requirements of our government.

We care not in what form it has been waged, a war of extermination has always proved detrimental to the nation that waged against nationality or against religion. The country around Metz where the hostile armies of France and Prussia are now concentrating all their forces has not recovered from the war of extermination which was waged there by the revocation of the edict of Nantes. In 1598 Henry IV. issued an edict which granted toleration to his Protestant subjects. This edict was revoked by Louis XIV. on the 24th of October 1685. Was France benefited by the revocation of this first edict? Not by any means. It was literally an act of extermination. As effectually so as if Louis had decreed to rid himself of the "pestilential" Protestants, whose industry and skillful artisanship were the bone and sinew of the prosperity of France. Anderson, in his "Origin of English Commerce," says this bad and unjust policy lost to France 800,000 Protestants, and gave to England 50,000 industrious artisans, some thousands of whom took to Spitalfields in the latter country the art of manufacturing silk. Others settled in Soho and St. Giles, and pursued the art of making crystal classes and jewelry, then little understood in England. Thus the insane policy of Louis laid the foundation of England's prosperity, the benefits of which she has been reaping to the present day. Let us revoke the edict which has long since been issued, that the United States are the asylum for the oppressed of all nations, and we will deprive ourselves of the labors of men who otherwise add greatly to our national aggrandizement.

If the Chinese wish to cast in their lot with us on the same terms and in the same way as emigrants from Germany and Ireland do, let us extend to them the right hand of fellowship. The men who form themselves into a "civil and military organization" to expel Chinamen from the United States, would have no scruples of conscience in expelling Irishmen and Germans.

EDITORS GAZETTE: I am very sorry that I have disturbed the peace and quietude of the editors of the Commercial. My article published in your paper was not intended for that dignified individual. It was designed for the benefit of honest Republicans that might be led astray by the hypocricy of that paper. I did not at all expect the great thunderer of reform to draw off his artillery from such game as "Simon Cameron"—the "Organ" and the "Ring" to waste his ammunition on small game like myself; far from it; but there is one conclusion I have come to by reading the Commercial, and that is, the editor of that paper is laboring under a severe attack of Cameronism-on-the-brain, and, if not relieved between this and the second Tuesday of October, I fear he will be a fit subject for Dixmont.

THE GERMAN SANITARY MOVEMENT.

Throughout the entire country the Germans have held meetings and resolved to afford pecuniary aid to the sick and wounded of the army of Prussia. As the movement in that direction has been spontaneous, no organized unity has yet been attained. To accomplish that desired end the German Patriotic Aid Society of New York has issued the following address:

The Executive Committee of the German Patriotic Aid Society of New York are of opinion that, in order to materially advance and render assistance to the cause of Germany, it will be advisable, nay, imperatively necessary, to adopt some well defined plan for the united action of the entire German element in the United States. In order to secure such combined activity, it becomes desirable that the different German Patriotic Aid Societies of each State should immediately proceed to the formation of State organizations, with an Executive Committee at the head of each. It would then become comparatively easy to bring all the German Patriotic Aid Societies into regular intercourse by means of the State Executive Committee.

It appears almost superfluous to point to the far-reaching influence of such a combination of four million Germans in America. Not only would the consciousness of marching in close columns toward the realization of the same object be instrumental in urging each individual to more energetic and persevering exertions, but the moral influence exercised in Germany and France (in opposite directions) by such a vast league with its ramifications in nearly every city, village, or hamlet throughout the broad expanse of the Union, would be infinitely greater than if each Patriotic Aid Society, or even those of each State, were acting separately and without connection with the rest. Moreover, the concerted action of all these societies could not fail to make a deep and lasting impression upon our native American citizens.

We already have their cordial approval to such a degree that a comparatively small impulse may so increase it as to elicit not only words, but acts of sympathy, and to induce them to throw considerable moral weight in favor of Germany into the uncertain balance of war. Actuated by these considerations, the Executive Committee of the German Patriotic Aid Society of New York propose a meeting of delegates in Chicago, on the 18th of August next, for the purpose of agreeing upon some plan for combined action in the manner above indicated. In the meantime, the organizations in the different States will, no doubt, have advanced sufficiently to admit of the submission by the delegates to the vote of their respective organizations of the plan adopted in their meeitng in Chicago. As it is imperatively necessary to act without delay, the Executive Committee of the German Patriotic Aid Society of New York have resolved not to wait until the State organizations may be completed, but to invite every Society organized up to the present time to send one delegate. As binding resolutions will be out of the question, and as the delegates will confine themselves to an agreement upon some plan of action, the Executive Committee of the German Patriotic Aid Society of New York confidently trusts that the initiative herewith taken will not give rise to any ill-feeling or their motive be misconstrued. Exceptional cases call for exceptional action.

All Aid Societies are requested to take this proposition into consideration at the earliest possible day, and, in case of approval, to inform the Secretary of the German Patriotic Aid Society, No. 160 Fulton street, corner of Broadway, New York. For the Executive Committee,

ATLANTIC CITY.

One of Our Belles Painted in Water Colors--How Our Huckstress Looks on the Beach--Pittsburghers Rusticating, Etc., Etc.

BRIGANTINE BEACH, N. J, July 27.

EDITORS GAZETTE:—Here we are at Brigantine Beach, three miles from Atlantic City, and if ever a lot of ladies felt thankful after the long, dusty, dirty, disagreable ride in the cars, the ladies who accompanied us do. We left the "Smoky City" on Monday, and after reaching the abode of Quakers, we shifted our quarters and quietly took our seats in a street car, which soon brought us to the Atlantic Railroad office, then again shifting ourselves and baggage, we elbowed our way into the cars, and in a short time a short man, seemingly short of breath and short of manners, remarked that we had but a "short time" to get ready and shouting all around. He "tapped the tassle" and off we went. I need not describe the trip to Atlantic City, for all railroad trips are alike—whether it be over the Pennsylvania Central or "up the incline plane." We however, reached the city without anything worthy of note taking place. We stopped but a little while—but that little time was sufficiently long to give us an opportunity to gaze upon the "wonder of the deep." We have seen cat fish in their native element up the lovely "Yough." We have gazed upon the sportive "sucker" as he slowly wended his way up "Shirte Creek." We have looked upon the merry mud turtle as he shook his "rat tarrier" like tail over a muddy hog, but never did we see any of "them 'ere animals," that could compare with a lot of chignonless-skeleton-skirt-less stayless-paintless Eves, as they kid-like sported in the briny deep—encased in blue or gray flannel armor. The first creature that came from the salty deep, was a young lady—(whom you often see on Fifth Avenue, dressed in all the "gimcracks" of fashion, and who looks like a "morning star") of perhaps twenty summers. She was clad in sky blue flannel, reaching from the neck to her heels. On her head was a bathing straw hat—which cost at least thirty cents—and her hair—(for she had left her bought stuff in the dry goods box they call bath houses,) which was about eight inches long, looked like a mass of oakum, partially picked—the salt water was dripping from her shoulders, elbows and knees, like gravy from a Christmas goose, and the flannel clinging closely to her displayed "her shape" in a style that would have done wonderfully well for the "Black Crook," and what a shape! but I won't describe it. Suffice it to say, I would advise at least five meals a day of good roast beef and potatoes, which might have a tendency to increase the amount of flesh and thereby render more Venus-like her emaciated appearance. Following in her wake was a maiden, fair, fat and forty. Did I say fat? Well, fat is no name for it. You may frequently see this damsel fair selling sweet potatoes, apples and unripe cherries at one of the huckster stands. She was dressed in the "pink of fashion." A bright red bathing suit, cut "a la Bloomer," showed off her rounded form, (she didn't weigh less than two hundred averdupois,) and as she came out of the water puffing like a spouting whale, she put me in mind of a porpoise in distress, and she did not look unlike a "mud model" of a "capstain bur," she smole a fearful smile at the thin girl in blue and said "why Amy how funny you do look." Well said Amy, you needn't talk, you look more like an overfed mermaid than anything else, and if I was—O, Lord, if there ain't a man looking at us—and into the dressing box they went—and in the course of half an hour out they came resplendent with curls, hoop skirts, silks and with cheeks as red as berry bright. They cast side looks at us—as much as to say, Young man, we ain't the fellows you saw in the water, and up the beach they went, while we were recalled to our senses by a burly fellow in a dirty shirt crying out "see yer, you feller with blue coat, if you want to git to Brigtine beach git aboard," and in half an hour we were snuggly fixed in an eight-by-ten room on the sea side of Captain Holdykom's hotel. A sherry cobbler soon restored our good feelings, and after a hearty supper, a good segar and a walk along the beach we retired—to dream of blue fish, chignons, sea bathing and fat hucksters. I will tell you of the beach in my next. We have a number of Pittsburghers, among whom can be seen Judge Collier and family, Gen. Pearson and family, W. D. Moore and wife, W. M. Pearson, Miss Ettie McKelvy, Controller Lambert and family, John Wilson and family, and a number of others. Will write soon. P. L. A.

OUTRAGEOUS assaults upon women and little girls were never so numerous as now, and the papers from every section are full of them, with some of the most devilish and fiendish particulars ever conceived by man. According to our established rule, we can publish nothing of this sort unless our duty as local chroniclers demands it, but in spite of boasted civilization the moral standard of the country does not appear to be rising.

THE WOMAN QUESTION.

MESSRS. EDITORS: An article in your Thursday's paper headed "The Woman Question," tells that men begin to think that there is something in this query after all. Feeling complimented by this fair concession on the part of the writer, a woman asks permission to say a few words in return.

The writer says, "women talk too much of their rights." I say they are entitled to it, because they received from God, the eternal source of light and justice, their souls birthright equally with man. No bright angel soaring up from this dim eatrh to enter the promised land, the realm above the skies, is asked 'are you a man or a woman?' Both sexes have one and the same promise regarding eternity. God gave the soul this proof of eternity, this seal of perfection, this holy pledge of immortality, this reflection of God's own mild, eternal power, alike to man and woman, but since its holy rights have been desecrated by human failings and woman's soul has been for thousands of years considered of a lower standard, this child of Eternity at last cries out its sorrows, and men have to listen, for their's is the responsibility for eternity.

I might tell you, prove to you, that woman is worthy of such rights; that she is capable of equality. That woman's vote will not injure society, but refine the different spheres. Woman never came down in the dust, unless thrust down by man, otherwise she brushes it off, wherever she finds it. I might tell you how these rights would elevate downtrodden humanity; but I will simply confine my answers to the article in question.

The writer thinks and begins to believe that wives, sisters and daughters, have been slaves, drudges; suffering under the lash of his domestic tyranny. There lies the most delicate, most tender point of the question. We are all the slaves of circumstances, suffering under the small little matters life consists of. No position in life, however high and elevated, is exempt from cares, sorrows, drudgery and losses; but woman's sphere especially is the centre of acute suffering, greater confinement and harder work. If it is not so believed I engage and invite all the men in creation to take up our work in the house, nursery and kitchen for six short weeks only. We agree willingly to the change, and surely we would feel as happy as the Indian going to his hunting-ground. Now, please do not get frightened nor scared; six weeks are soon over, and yours will be the sweet satisfaction to see that man is no domestic tyrant; on the other hand, you will have found out that a woman, a devoted mother, who gives her heart's blood for children, whose prayers are never for herself, but for her dear ones, who is high-priestess in the temple of the household, oracle in the difficult questions of home and the education of men, is worthy of a voice in politics. Doing a greater work in life than man, being more self sacrificing, she is entitled to equal rights with man, to say the least. With regard to the improvement of woman's legal condition, I am satisfied to see that by the untiring exertions of noble women such laws have been improved, and will be more improved in the future. Equal partnership in marriage has been constituted by the body of Methodists in this country. All honor to them for the justice shown. Why women want to have the control of their own property is, because thousands have been the victims of licentious, dissolute husbands. Ask those mothers who have seen their children fall a prey to misery, brought on by wretched, heartless fathers, if the reason be not good. Woman should have the control of her own fortune because, being married to a conscientious, honorable man, she has reason to trust him, and their interests will be naturally the same, and their efforts equally united; has her lot been unfortunately cast on the other side, she is saved from misery by this very same law, for she can get herself and her children's property out of the grasp of a spendthrift. Who in the world is so selfish, so insensible to the anguish of those, writhing under the unjust severity of existing laws, as to remain untouched by the daily repetition of such sufferings? All men are not tyrants, a good many are kind generous partners of women's joys and sorrows, though many are as genuine gossips, as any old woman sitting on her doorstep, who in spite of of grey hairs and old age, makes herself ridiculous and ludicrous by slandering a neighbor who is far above the reach of malicious gossip, and smiles at envy's vain endeavors. Such men fall ing in with slandering women, with dishonest gamblers, with corrupted politicians, with degraded defaulters, with the abominable ringleaders of wickedness, with licentious husbands, are the tyrants and scourges of humanity. To make a havoc among these scourges is the endeavor of the leaders of the woman suffrage movement. The noble pioneers are steering toward perfection. Many a law has been improved by their admirable efforts, while their influence has been felt in the departments where ladies are occupied, in business life, and in the counsel of the learned. They will yet be felt in the juries and at the ballot-box. Who, but for those noble pioneers, we may say missionaries, would have felt the influence of the different improvements in laws, in society, which are acknowledged by the writer of Thursday's article. Let us all unite to rout the army of ignorant, disgraceful, slandering men and women. Society cannot but be benefitted by such campaigns. By uniting the different opinions of the different sexes, by combining their various qualities, by bringing to light the long hidden power of noble women's capabilities, by giving extension to their energies, mental and physical powers, they will work their way on. Endowed with equal intelligence and aptitude they will conquer the corrupted elements, refine and make straight what is crooked, and elevate and benefit the different classes of society. To the noble women of the cause, I recall the words of Virgil:

"Endure and conquer! Love will soon dispose
To future good, our past and present woes!
With me the rocks of Scylla you have tried
Th' inhuman Cyclops and his den defied!
What greater ills hereafter can you bear?
Resume your courage and dismiss your care;
An hour will come, with pleasure to relate,
Your sorrows past as benefits of fate."

A WOMAN.

M. Louis Blanc on Dickens.

[From the London Times.]

In the Rappel is published a notice of Dickens by M. Blanc, in which, after contrasting the great honors paid by England to its favorite novelist with comparative apathy shown by France towards its great literary celebrities, he criticises the works of our famous author. Dickens, he says, was distinguished as a humorist, but in the character of his humor he was inferior to Shakespeare, to Sterne, and to the chief of humorists, Cervantes. He was less original than Shakespeare, less sensitive than Cervantes, and less less bonhomme than Sterne. He did not treat the vices which he depicted with sufficient seriousness to prevent a doubt being sometimes entertained of the reality of his convictions as a moralist. Often his readers were led to forgive what was hateful because it was represented in a comical light. In ideality Charles Dickens was unsurpassed. He described evils without caring for the remedies. If, in the course of his plan, he could assist a work of philanthropy well and good, but woe to any philanthropist who might come in his way. His merry genius was not embarrassed by the enthusiasm of humanity. He loved it in that sense that he did not hate it. Still, taking all things into consideration, the influence of Dickens's romances has been a very salutary one. Many social reforms have been suggested by his characters." "But," M. Blanc adds, "Charles Dickens never in any of his writings offered any gratification to impure minds nor to vile curiosity. He always respected himself and he always respected his readers. The sanctity of home has never had a more reverend describer or a more charming apostle. Was there anything else wanted to cause England to love and lament him?"

Arab Toilets.

Arab good manners require that a man shall be decently dressed, and pious in every action of his life. He must, to begin with, be careful in all the ablutions required by his religion; he must have his head shaved once a week, keep his beard, not cut, but carefully trimmed, and that to a point; he must keep, also, his upper mustaches clipped to the level of his upper lip, except at the corners; so that he may not soil his dress in eating; and he must not omit to keep his nails in good order, never biting them, but paring them carefully; and even the parings are not to be thrown carelessly away, but they must be thrown into the fire, or buried in the earth, for the nails are, in fact, sacred, according to an Arab superstition.—All the Year Round.

The Late George C. Franciscus.

The following circular has been issued by the officers of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, announcing to its employes the death of the late general agent:

It has become my painful duty to announce the death of G. C. Franciscus, general agent, which took place suddenly, at Cresson, on the morning of the 23d instant.

In acknowledgment of the long and faithful service of the deceased, and as an expression of the high esteem and regard in which he was held by the Company, and by all the officers and employes with whom he was associated, it is ordered that all the locomotives of the Company be draped in mourning on Tuesday, July 26, and that the bells at all the Company's shops be tolled from four to four and a half o'clock P. M., of that day, at which time the funeral service will take place. It is also ordered that the office at Altoona and those of the division superintendents, be draped in mourning for thirty days.

A. J. CASSATT,
General Superintendent.

THE BLOOD IN SUMMER.

The blood deteriorates in hot weather. Profuse perspiration deprives it of a portion of its nourishing and productive properties. Consequently, in Summer, the flesh loses in some degree, its firmness, the muscles lack their usual elasticity and vigor, and the weight of the body diminishes. These are clear indications that the ordinary supply of the life-sustaining principle afforded by the food we eat, is not sufficient to meet the requirements of the system under a high temperature. There is another reason for this, besides the direct influence of the heat, viz: the loss of appetite and the weakening of the digestive powers which it occasions. Under these circumstances a wholesome invigorant is evidently needed, and the best and safest is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This admirable vegetable tonic and alterative, acts favorably upon the system in several ways. It increases the appetite and facilitates digestion, thereby inclining the stomach to receive and enabling it to assimilate a due amount of nourishment. It also tones the relaxed secretive organs and the bowels. Under its operation the process of emaciation, occasioned by the drain through the pores, is arrested, the whole frame refreshed and invigorated, and the spirits exhilarated. The dyspeptic, the bilious, the nervous, the debilitated, scarcely need to be told that it is precisely the stimulant and corrective they ought to take at this season. Thousands of them know the fact by experience. Nothing in the pharmacopœia (or out of it) will supply its place—least of all the trashy local nostrums which some unscrupulous dealers would be glad, for the benefit of their own pockets, to peddle out in its stead.

LOAN
Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Co.
The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad
Is completed and running from RICHMOND, VA., to the celebrated WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, in West Virginia, 227 miles. It is being rapidly extended to the Ohio river, 200 miles further making in all 427 miles.
In its progress Westward, it penetrates and opens up to market the WONDERFUL COAL DEPOSITS OF THE KANAWHA REGION IN WEST VIRGINIA. And thus brings the superior and abundant Coals of that section into communication with the IRON ORES OF VIRGINIA AND OHIO, and the WESTERN, SOUTH WESTERN AND EASTERN MARKETS.
When completed it will connect the SUPERIOR HARBOR FACILITIES OF THE CHESAPEAKE BAY with reliable navigation on the Ohio river, and thus with the ENTIRE SYSTEM OF RAILROAD AND WATER TRANSPORTATION OF THE GREAT WEST AND SOUTHWEST.
It will make a SHORT, EASY, CHEAP and FAVORABLE ROUTE from the WEST to the SEA and will command a LARGE SHARE OF THE ENORMOUS FREIGHTS seeking transportation to the coast.
It will thus become one of the most IMPORTANT AND PROFITABLE EAST AND WEST TRUNK LINES OF RAILROAD in the country, and command a trade of immense value.
The completed portion of the Road is doing a PROFITABLE AND INCREASING BUSINESS, and is fully equal in value to the whole amount of the mortgage upon the entire Line—($15,000,000.)
The loan of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, being a FIRST MORTGAGE UPON THE ENTIRE LINE, PROPERTY AND EQUIPMENTS WORTH WHEN COMPLETED AT LEAST $30,000,000, is therefore one of the most substantial conservative and reliable Railroad Loans ever offered in the market, and is peculiarly adapted to the wants of Investors and Capitalists.
Who desire to make their investments with the most satisfactory assurance of POSITIVE AND UNDOUBTED SECURITY.
The Bonds are in denominations of

CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL PRIVATE DISEASES, Syphilis in all its forms, all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhœa or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produces some of the following effects as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.
A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhœa or Whites, Falling, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, Pruritis, Amenorrhœa, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhœa, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.
It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.
The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.
The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Hours 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. Sundays 12 M. to 2 P. M. Office, No. 9 WYLIE ST. (near Court House) Pittsburgh.

MONEY AND COMMERCE.

NEW YORK, July 29, 1870.

The gold room was somewhat excited this afternoon with a marked decline in premium, while stock exchange was buoyant and higher on government bonds and share list generally. Occasion of turn of affairs was the receipt of telegrams from Frankfort quoting bonds at 82⅛. The rise is attributed to purchases by German bankers to cover shorts and German bankers selling gold here which forced the market down.

Money easy: from 3 to 5 on call. Foreign exchange weak and lower. Prime sixty days bills 9⅛; sight 10⅛; and cable transfers 11⅛.

Gold heavy: opened at 21⅛; and touched 21⅛; declined to 20⅛; on pressure of sales rallied and closed at 20⅛@20⅛.

Carrying rates 2@5. Clearances $44,000,000.

Governments buoyant and higher. Coupons of '81, 13⅛@13⅛; '62, 10⅛@10⅛; '64, 10⅛@10⅛; '65, 10⅛@10⅛; new do, 9⅛@9⅛; '67, 9⅛@9⅛; '68, 9⅛@10. Ten-Forties, 7⅛@7⅛. Currency 6's, 10⅛@11.

State securities quiet and strong. Missouris, 88⅛; old Tennessees, 63; new do, 61; old Virginias, 59⅛; new do, 60; old North Carolinas, 47; new do, 29.

The Stock market was firmer but closed not up to the highest figures of the day. The leading features were Ohio and Mississippi, New York Central, Lake Shore and Rock Island.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, July 29, 1870.

The market compared with that of yesterday was remarkably quiet to-day, the sales being comparatively light, and while there is no material change in prices, the general feeling seems to indicate weakness—operators generally seemed to be bearish, predicting a still further decline. Rumors have been prevalent for some days that some eastern parties were likely to go back on their refined July contracts; we were assured to-day, on good authority, that there is no truth in these reports. A dispatch from Philadelphia states that all the oil tendered will be accepted and paid for at the proper time, so that there is not likely to be any trouble on this score. It is not probable that there will be any failures notwithstanding the parties above referred to will have to stand a pretty heavy loss.

CRUDE.

PITTSBURGH IRON MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, July 29, 1870.

The operations in metal this week, as compared with last week, have been small, but the market is reported strong and stocks pretty well reduced. Most of the mills bought pretty largely last week and the week preceding, and being pretty well supplied for the present, are now disposed to hold back. It is but proper to remark that the offerings are light as holders, too, seem disposed to hold off for the present, and this accounts for the light volume of business.

Merchants bar iron has advanced to $80@82 in the east, and the advance there has produced a stronger feeling here. Orders are flowing in freely from the west and south, and stocks here are pretty well run down, and those mills in operation are running on orders. Trade is reported unusually brisk for this season of the year, and it is said that some of the mills are so crowded with orders that they cannot stop to make repairs.

PITTSBURGH MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, July 29, 1870.

The breadstuffs market is being watched with great interest all over the country, as it is a matter in which all are more or less interested. As will have been noticed, the dispatches from Chicago during the past two days have reported a stronger feeling in flour and wheat and higher prices. The advance was caused by war rumors, one of which was that England had signified her intention to ally with Prussia against France. The market is very sensitive, and in a good speculative condition, as prices are likely to go up or down on the strength of mere rumor, no matter how foolish. As the Chicago Republican remarks: "It is a poor article to buy with any intention of making the investment permanent, at least for a month or two, but it is a good time to speculate—a man can make or lose money in a hurry by buying wheat just now."

We notice that the Chicago papers continue to give the elevators there considerable attention, though if reports are true, no more than they deserve. The following is the concluding paragraph in the Tribune on this subject:

Farmers and shippers having grain in store in Chicago ought never to be deceived by the cries of "hot" grain. In nine cases out of ten it is a false alarm, intended to run down the price of grain. Let them hold on to their receipts, and the grain will turn out to be perfectly sound in a few days. If it does not, let the holders of receipts sue the elevators for the difference between the good grain sent into warehouse and the bad grain taken out.

ASHES—Firmer but not quotably higher. Soda Ash, 4 for common, and 4⅛ for refined; Pearls 9@9⅛; Pots 7⅛.

APPLES—In active demand and scarce, and the better qualities are higher. We now quote at $4@5 per bbl.

BUTTER—Prime butter is scarce and with a good demand, prices are higher. Strictly prime fresh packed is selling readily at 25.

BROOM CORN—Dull at 12 to 13 cts.

BEANS—Demand continues meagre and prices are nominal at $1,50@1,75 per bushel.

BROOMS—Store prices: Fancy, $5,50; No. 1, $4,50; No. 2, $4; No. 3, $3,50; Common, $2,50@3.

CORNMEAL—Sales in store at $1@1 10 per bushel, as to quality.

CHICKENS—Spring chickens are in good supply, with regular sales by the coop at 55@65 per pair.

CARBON OIL—Continues very dull and it is difficult to quote correctly in a jobbing way.

CHEESE—Is in good supply but with a steady demand prices are maintained, 12@14, for Ohio, the outside figure for Goshen.

DRIED FRUIT—Peaches in steady demand, with sales of halves reported at 9@10—quarters quoted at 6@7. Apples nominal at 5@6.

EGGS—Dull but unchanged, 15@18, as to condition—the outside figure for fresh packed. Receipts fair.

FLOUR—Is in steady demand mainly from the local trade, but there is no change to make in quotations. We continue to quote at $7⅛ for good and $7⅛ for choice western flours. Rye Flour $6@6.25. The receipts continue light, and dealers are a little timid about stocking up at present being fearful of a reaction.

GRAIN—The recent advance in grain was entirely speculative, being predicated on the assumption that a foreign war was inevitable and prices were run up with an almost unprecedented rapidity. As already intimated, the advance was owing entirely to speculation, and may decline with equal rapidity, should affairs in Europe assume a pacific character. To purchase largely at present prices is a game of chance that all thoughtful and considerate people will not indulge in. In this country there has been garnered in good condition, one of the best crops of wheat that the country has ever been blessed with. Rye and barley are an average crop, and excellent in quality. Some weeks ago it was feared that the yield of barley in Western New York and Canada would be light, but later intelligence looks more favorable. In the west, as we noted the other day, the yield will be fully up, if not above an average, and the quality, in some sections, is said to be unusually fine. The prospect for a super-abundance of corn was never better, and unless there should spring up an active foreign demand, it is more than probable that prices will recede before the elapse of many weeks. In the event of actual war between France and Russia, it does not follow that the prices of grain should be materially advanced in this country instantaneously with such an occurrence. Should the war be prolonged, and other European powers become involved in the imbroligo, then, indeed we may look with a degree of certainty for an active and legitimate demand for our cereals, and a continuance of fair prices. The arrivals of wheat have been rather larger than for some days past, and with a continued good demand, the market is firm and prices well sustained. We continue to quote at $1.35@1.40 for good to prime red, and $1.45@1.50 for white. Oats—the arrivals have been rather larger within the past two days, and if anything the market is hardly as strong, though there is no change in quotations. We can report sales at 55⅛@56, on track, and we heard of a sale, on wharf, at 54. Dealers are paying 53@54 in first hands and furnishing sacks. Rye—dealers are paying 90@92, and there is not much offering. No sales of barley and no established quotations.

GROCERIES—The market is devoid of anything particularly important. Sugars are firm with a continued steady demand, though prices are unchanged. Coffee is firm but unchanged.

HAY—Sold in the Allegheny market yesterday at $12@18 per ton, a decline.

HUSKS—Corn husks, 3@3⅛ cts.

LIME—Sales of Cleveland at $2,25 per bbl, and eastern at $1.75.

LARD OIL—No. 1 extra is quoted at $1.20@1.25, the outside figure for well established Western brands.

POTATOES—The receipts from abroad have fallen off very materially within the past day or two, and the market is firmer $2,50@2,75 per bbl.

PEANUTS—More active and firmer under influence of advices from Cincinnati; we can report sales of several hundred bags here at 8 cts, and one shipment to Cincinnati, where prices are relatively higher than here.

PROVISIONS—Market steady with a continued good jobbing demand, while in regard to prices there are no changes. Shoulders, 14⅛@15 for plain, and 16@16⅛ for sugar cured; Ribbed Sides; 17⅛; short rib 18, Clear 18⅛; Sugar cured hams 25@25⅛. Dried beef 26. Lard 17⅛ in tcs and 18⅛ in kegs. Mess Pork, $31.

SEEDS—No movement in Clover or timothy seeds. Flaxseed is also dull notwithstanding the arrivals are light, and cannot be quoted above $2.20.

SALT—Allegheny river brands may be quoted at $1.60 by the car load and $1.70@1.75 for small lots in store.

RIVER NEWS.

The river continues to rise steadily with 9 feet by the Monongahela marks This is an unusual stage of water for this season of the year. Weather clear and pleasant.

The Wild Duck and barges arrived from St. Louis and departed again for Cincinnati with a tow of coal.

The Juniata is being nicely repainted at Cincinnati. The Arlington has already gone through that process at Louisville.

Capt. Dan Moore and family have gone to the country to spend a few weeks.

The Mary Davage is undergoing repairs.

The Messenger, since receiving an application of paint, presents a very handsome appearance—in fact, she looks like a new boat.

Capt. J. P Smith left here yesterday afternoon on a pleasure trip to Lake Superior, Niagara Falls and Canada. He also intends to visit Long Branch and Cape May to recruit his health and vigor. The Captain expects to be gone some two weeks, and upon his return again takes command of the fleet packet Belle, in the Pittsburgh Brownsville & Geneva packet trade. Capt. Smith is a clever gentleman and an efficient officer and boatman. Our wishes accompany the Captain on his present trip.

—August 1st the new law in reference to the collection of hospital dues for steam boats will go into effect. Under it, a steamboat is taxed 40 per cent. per month for every man employed on the boat, from captain down, instead of 20 cents as heretofore. While it may seem paradoxical, yet it will prove a fact, that the increase of the tax will be a saving to steamboats generally. The law allows the tax to be deducted by the boat from the wages of the men, the same as heretofore, and now the deduction will be strictly exacted. Before many boats did not claim this privilege, because the amount was so small.—Cin. Gazette.

—Among the acts passed at the last session of Congress, and which has since received the approval of the President, was one of great importance to Western steamboat owners, and the owners of stocks in steamboat lines. This act removes the tunnage tax of 30 cents per tun per annum, from and after the 15th of this month, terminates the 2½ per cent tax upon gross passenger receipts from and after the 1st of October next; and terminates from the date of the passage the income tax upon dividends earned by steamboat lines.

—The St. Louis Republican says: It is rumored that there are strong probilities that the C. B. Church and M. J. Wicks will yet be the regular visitants at our wharf, under the auspicies of a certain strong steamboat Company. We give the rumor for what it is worth, not having been taken into the confidence of any of the parties concerned.

—An old boatman, formerly of Missouri, Capt. Alfred T. Lacey, is recommended at Memphis as a candidate for Congress, because of his warm sympathy with the cause of the South in the late war, and because he sold out and fled to Memphis to escape the Federal soldiers when the war broke out.

—The little Alpha, built at Memphis by Dr. Acree, with a newly invented wheel power, and which, it will be remembered, capsized a year or two since, causing the death of several estimable persons, is now lying idle in the Yazoo River a short distance from Yazoo City.

—The Richmond and Mollie Able will form a line from Memphis to New Orleans during the coming cotton season. One of them will leave Memphis every Saturday. Captain Green will command the Richmond, and Captain Dan Able will, as usual, have charge of the Mollie Able.

—It is said that the Memphis and Cincinnati Packet Company will offer their present stock of steamboats for sale, as they will find no use for them after the enlargement of the Louisville & Portland Canal. Larger and finer packets will be built to meet the demand for business.

—George Graver, second engineer of the Nellie Rogers, died of congestive chills on the 22d. It is supposed the deceased was formerly a resident of Pittsburgh.

—The pioneer boatmen of Nashville are fast passing away. In the city the only ones now living are Captains Jack Smith Jesse L. Dortch, Phil. H. Mitchell, John S. Dashiell and Wm. Phillips.

—George Morse, who killed another negro deck hand some time ago, was sentenced at Cairo, on the 25th, to the Penitentiary for 14 years.

—The Cumberland river was falling on Wednesday with four feet on Harpeth Shoals.

—The Collier and barges, loaded at St Louis for N. O. under the auspicies of the Merchants' Line.

—Captain John Wilson, an old and respected steamboatman of Nashville, died in that city on Sunday last.

—The Tidal Wave and Carrie Converse were at Cairo on Wednesday, and the Exchange was at Evansville the same day.

—The Kate Putnam was loading at St. Louis on Tuesday for the Ohio.

—The pilots at Memphis are about to revive their Benevolent Association.

—Dumont raised steam on the new Potomac for the first time, Wednesday.

—The Camelia is laid up at Cincinnati.

These bonds have 50 years to run, are convertible at the option of the holder into the stock of the Company at par, and the payment of the principal is provided for by a sinking fund. The convertibility privilege attached to these bonds cannot fail to cause them at no distant day to command a market price considerably above par, besides paying about 9 per cent. currency, interest in the meanwhile. U. S. Five-twenties at present prices only return 5 per cent., and we regard the security equally good.
The greater part of the road is already completed and the balance of the work is rapidly progressing. The established character of this road, running as it does through the heart of the most thickly settled and richest portion of the great State of Iowa, together with its present advanced condition and large earnings, warrant us in unhesitatingly recommending these bonds to investors as, in every respect, an undoubted security.

The heavy rain storms which have visited us during the past week or two have been the subject of general excitement, almost as much so as the fact that Liebler, No. 104 Wood street, has replenished his stock of trunks, valises, traveling satchels and tourists' outfits. Liebler is always up to the times.

Slight Fire.—About half past five o'clock yesterday morning there was an alarm of fire from box 4, occasioned by the breaking out of a fire in the cellar of Phillips Bros.' machine shop at the corner of First avenue and Ferry streets. The fire, it is thought, originated from the furnaces. The damage will not exceed $500 and was fully covered by insurance.

Saloon Row.—During a slight 'misunderstanding in a saloon on Magee street, yesterday, Michael Noonan applied a glass bottle with great force to the head of Jas. M'Nally. The dispute suddenly terminated, but has since been renewed in a legal way before Alderman Morrow, who has arrested Michael and held him for trial for assault and battery.

Historical.—The Uniontown Genius says: "Travelers over the Pittsburgh and Connellsville Railroad will notice a coal pit on the Yough, near Jackson's mines, converted into a stable for mules. The first coal that was shipped down the river came out of that bank, and was sold to Messrs. Parkburn & Carr, Ripley, Ohio, for blacksmithing purposes. This was in 1842."

Tar Tank Burned.—About half-past one o'clock yesterday morning a fire occurred at John B. An alarm was sounded from box 75, and the fire department of the third district responded promptly.

Singular Accident.—Last evening a middle aged lady named Mrs. Garvin was walking along Smithfield street, when she stepped on an insecure grating, which tipped and caused her to fall with one limb toward the cellar and the other on the pavement. She was quite seriously injured by the accident and had to be carried home. Persons who allow such traps as that in front of their premises should be prosecuted.

Journalistic.—Mr. John W. Pittock will announce in the Leader to-morrow that he has associated with himself in the proprietorship of that journal, its present editor, J. I. Nevin, Esq., and R. P. The new firm is a good and strong one, and we wish its members large success and prosperity.

Serenade.—We had a magnificent serenade last night from the Pittsburgh Zouave Drum Corps, under the leadership of Mr. S. I. Heflick. There are fourteen members of the corps, and they have been so well organized and thoroughly trained by their leader that we doubt very much if there is a better fife and drum combination in the State—certainly it is quite impossible to furnish much better martial music. Come again, gentlemen.

Art and science are both called into requisition in the manufacture of those beautiful sets of queensware for which the Keystone Pottery has become so famous. Messrs. Kier & Co., at their warehouse, No. 363 Liberty street, have on sale an assortment of this manufacture, which, when the skill and knowledge required to produce it is considered, is one of the most attractive sights in the city. Call in for queensware at 363 Liberty street.

Three vs. One.—Yesterday Peter Gilner made information before Alderman Thomas against Henry McConville and his two sons, Henry, Jr., and Michael, for aggravated assault and battery. The two men had a quarrel, when the two boys aided their father, and thus, by three against one, Peter found himself badly vanquished. The disturbance occurred on Maria street, Sixth ward. The accused were held to bail for a hearing.

A Change.

The weather yesterday was delightfully cool and pleasant. The storms seem to have passed away and left behind them, at least for the present, an exhilarating, bracing atmosphere. This is doubly enjoyable as a successor to the close and suffocating heat with which we were afflicted a few days ago. That it may continue is the general wish of suffering humanity, that has been enjoying a half parboiled condition as long as such a state is enjoyable.

FIENDISH OUTRAGE.

A Young Girl the Victim—Assaulted by Two Men—The Perpetrators Still at Large.

Last Sunday evening a most bold and fiendish crime was committed near Millvale borough, Western Pennsylvania Railroad, about eight miles above Allegheny. The victim was a young maiden about 17 years of age, and the daughter of very respectable parents. She had been sent out for the cows, and was returning from the pasture about dusk. The road lay through a small wooded ravine or hollow, and as she was passing through this place a man who had been concealed jumped into the middle of the road and caught hold of her. She was rendered speechless by fright for a moment, and the next the villain had his hand over her mouth, preventing any outcry. He was a stout, vigorous man, but would doubtless have failed in his satanic design had not assistance reached him. Another human fiend, evidently a partner in the scheme, made his appearance. This second comer at once performed his part, holding the girl while the other brutally outraged her. The infamous scoundrels while proceeding with their plan were suddenly alarmed by footsteps approaching, which caused them to precipitately leave the locality. The girl thus freed made her way home as rapidly as possible, and related the circumstance to her parents. She described her first assailant in such a manner as to leave no doubt as to his identity. The other she had never seen but felt confident she could recognize again.

Monday morning the girl, accompanied by her parents, called upon Alderman O'Donnell of this city and made information against her unknown assailants. The matter was entrusted to the officer's police, and kept quiet in the hope that the accused might be secured. Thus far they have, however, eluded detection. They have apparently left for other parts, as neither of the two suspected have been about since the occurrence. The inhuman villains if apprehended should receive their deserts—if that be possible. Hanging is too good for such characters.

OFFICIAL MISERIES.

An Alderman in Trouble—The Nature of His Offence—What has been Done About It.

Aldermen, like other people, have their sorrows. Jovial and happy as they may seem, yet at times clouds obscure the brightness of their pathway; all is not sunshine. Many and various are the perplexities to which they are subject in their intricate legal course. Not the least of these is the "hangman's whip," the annoyance occasioned by obstinate litigants who are always ready to disturb the magisterial serenity by charges of misdemeanor in office. Such is the trouble which at present intrudes upon the placidity of Alderman J. C. Smith, of East Liberty. His accuser is Robert J. Watson. The cause is based upon an information made against Watson some time ago by a man who charged him (Watson) with fraud in a certain business transaction, which eventually proved groundless. Not content, however, with this termination of the affair, Mr. Watson investigates still further, and at last is sure there was irregularity in the proceedings. Confident of this, he appeared before Alderman McMasters yesterday and made information against Alderman Smith for misdemeanor in office, alleging that he issued a warrant upon an information which was not sworn to, and upon which he (Watson) was arrested and subjected to great annoyance.

Alderman McMasters issued a warrant for the arrest of his brother official, and the case will be investigated to-day.

SERIOUS FALL.

Accident at the New High School Building—A Laborer Falls from the Scaffolding—Very Severely Injured—His Recovery Doubtful.

Yesterday afternoon a serious accident occurred at the new Pittsburgh High School building, in course of erection, corner of Fulton and Cliff streets, Seventh ward. A laborer, named Patrick Flaherty, was ascending the "run" to the second story, wheeling a load of bricks in front of him, when he somehow missed his footing and fell off his narrow pathway to the floor below. The distance is about twenty-five feet. The man lay insensible where he alighted, and the other workmen who ran to his relief, at first supposed him to be dead. He was picked up and medical attention summoned, however as quickly as possible. By the time the physicians arrived he had recovered consciousness, but was suffering intense pain. Upon examination it was found that his spine was injured dangerously. He also received internal injuries, the extent of which could not be exactly determined.

The victim as soon as he had been properly treated was removed to his home in Point alley. He is a married man, about thirty-five years of age and has a wife and family. He was living at last accounts, but his injuries are such that fears are entertained he will not recover.

Petition in Bankruptcy.

In the United States District Court yesterday, Judge McCandless on the Bench, the petition of Messrs. J. B. Lewis & Co., of New York, was presented, asking that the members of the firm of Hathaway & Fulmer, proprietors of a hotel at Pleasantville, Pa., be adjudged bankrupts. The petitioners set forth that Hathaway & Fulmer are indebted to them in the sum of $2,198, and that for the preference to Wm. Fulmer and other creditors, the debtors have confessed judgment in the Court of Common Pleas of Venango county, and that under those judgments thus confessed the property of the said firm has been levied upon by the Sheriff of Venango county, and is advertised to be sold on the first day of August next. The petitioners allege that the confessions of judgment were acts of bankruptcy, and were intended to defraud the petitioners. An injunction was asked for restraining the Sheriff and the parties in whose favor the judgments were confessed from making the sale of the property, and also to restrain the said Hathaway & Fulmer from making any disposition of the same. A warrant for the arrest of the defendants was also asked for, so as to secure their appearance at court from time to time until a decision shall be obtained on the petition, or until the further order of the court. After the petition had been read the court granted the injunctions applied for, and also ordered the issue of a warrant of arrest. The rule to show cause, granted in the case, was made returnable on the 6th of August next.

"Move On."

The order has come at last. The beginning of the end is near. We mean the end of those almost intolerable nuisances, organ grinders, street beggars, and prize package sellers. Sorely have our people been afflicted by these plagues for many days, and many weeks, yea, even for many months have we been compelled to listen to the same jarring, discordant screetchings of numerous organs tuned by men with one arm; men with no arms, men with one leg, men with no legs, men with no eyes, and even lame, blind and halt women have had a hand at the work. But their day has come. Henceforth we are to be free from the nuisance. At ten o'clock yesterday the police were instructed by the Mayor to require all mendicants, beggars, organ grinders, and all other nuisances of a like manner when found "stationary," to "move on." And we hope it will be strictly enforced.

When to ask a Favor.

There are some persons who have a rare faculty of asking favors and always securing what they desire. Their success is in a great measure owing to the remembrance of one simple rule,—never ask a man for anything when he is hungry. Now if such a one wanted anything, as a preliminary to the asking, be from whom the boon was to be received would be taken, if in Pittsburgh to the Continental, next door below the Post office, Fifth avenue. There fish, game, fruit, pastry, meats,—everything palatable and enticing to the appetite would he set before him: and after he had eaten; and through that medium became good humored,—then and not until then, would the request be made. Those who doubt its efficacy should first give it a trial. The Continental is on Fifth avenue, below the Post Office.

The Tannery Fire.

The ruins of the tannery fire in Allegheny are still smouldering. Thursday night about eleven o'clock the heat communicated to a lot of tanbark, which had escaped the first fire. The flames were observed by Lieutenant Ecky, and by him word was conveyed to the Chief Engineer. The Gen. Grant engine was sent out, and after about three hours' work succeeded in extinguishing the flames. There is no danger from the smouldering ruins now, as all the property within reach has been destroyed.

The Allegheny Library.

This institution will close to-night for a brief term, which is to be improved in renovating it and rearranging the volumes in the Library. In about two weeks it will be thrown open again, when a large assortment of new books will be found upon its shelves. The managers have been careful in their selection and have secured a stock of the latest and most popular works, which will be found a valuable addition to those already in the cases. It is gratifying to note this evidence of the prosperity of this noble institution.

UNSTAMPED RECEIPTS.

The Government vs. the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

We stated some time since that there would in all probability be suits instituted against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company by the Government for an alleged violation of the internal revenue law, in their failure to affix the necessary stamps to their receipts for freight bills. The Company, as we have before stated, do not give a receipt signed by any individual, but merely render a bill of freight, upon which is printed the words, "Received payment," and where the signature should be the bill bears the stamp of the Company. Whether this is a violation of the law or not, of course, will have to be determined by the Court, and upon this point rests the case. United States District Attorney Swope, on Thursday, instituted thirty-two suits against the Company for the recovery of the penalty imposed for the neglect or refusal to affix the stamps required under the revenue law. In the "narrs" filed copies of twenty receipts given to Messrs. Allen, Kirkpatrick & Co., upon payment of freight bills, are incorporated, and also copies of twelve given to Messrs. W. H. Kirkpatrick & Co. As the penalty in each case is fifty dollars, the amount involved in the suits commenced is about $1,600. The receipts upon which the proceedings have been instituted are from two firms as above stated, and it is probable that others will be brought. The cases will probably be tried at the October term of the District Court.

The Penn Avenue Bonds.

The bonds issued by authority of Councils, under an act of the Legislature for the improvement of Penn avenue, appear to be in great demand. There will be but three hundred thousand dollars issued at present and every dollar of it will be taken at par. They appear to have the precedence over all other city securities, and are in great demand. They run for twelve years, and bear interest at seven per cent. free of tax, and are secured not alone by the property abutting on the avenue, but the credit of the entire city stands pledged for their redemption. The commissioners held a meeting last evening at which one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars of the bonds were signed by them and we are informed that every dollar of them was taken immediately.

A Costly Sleep.

Yesterday morning a dilapidated looking individual made his appearance at the Allegheny Mayor's office and related a tale of sorrow. He had imbibed too freely the evening previous, fell among thieves, was taken to Finkbine's lumber yard, First ward, and while asleep there, robbed of $300 and his coat. He only discovered his loss when he awoke from his drunken stupor. He gave his name as J. L. Howard, and said he was from down the river. The police are on the track of several parties suspected of the crime.

During the afternoon a young man named James Oliver was arrested for the robbery. He will have a hearing this morning.

New Firm.

Mr. Charles C. Burke and Mr. Joseph P. Wood have separately made a good reputation as oil commission merchants. It will be seen by their cards in another column that they have formed a business connection under the firm name of Burke & Wood, and have united their business at No. 4 Perry Block, Duquesne Way, where, with their accustomed energy and promptitude, all orders for the purchase or sale of petroleum and its products will receive careful attention. The large experience and well known probity of the firm entitle them to the full confidence of their correspondents. We predict for the firm a prosperous trade.

A Young Rogue.

Yesterday morning Superintendent McCandless of the Allegheny Fire alarm was engaged in testing one of the boxes located near the Ellsworth Engine House. In doing so he happened to lay the "tester" upon the pavement a moment while he repaired a wire. At that instant a young boy came along, picked up the tester and started off. He was chased several squares, but managed to escape. In his flight, however, he dropped the instrument and it was secured, the city being thus saved $50, the price of it. If the young rogue who is known, is caught, he will be properly dealt with.

Should be Attended To.

The peripatetic venders of quack nostrums and prize packages who congregate at the Allegheny Diamond Square, should receive some attention from the police. They form a great nuisance. Last evening six of them, ranged in a row, succeeded in making night hideous with their tongue-clatter. Some of them vary the exercises with feats of legerdemain, much to the delight of the juveniles; others attract patronage by relating obscene stories, and all of them attract attention by a loud mouthing, furious declamation and general clamor, equalled only by a cockpit. Let the nuisance be abated.

A Prosperous Institution.

From an official statement of the condition of the People's Savings Bank of Pittsburgh published elsewhere in this paper, it will be seen that in the short space of three years it has grown from little childhood to stalwart manhood; from a merely nominal capital up to $200,000 paid up capital, and from no deposits up to a line of nearly $400,000. The amount of bonds, mortgages and other good securities held by the bank is $566,316. I will thence be seen how abundantly safe the depositors are, and how carefully and skillfully the institution is managed.

Dialogue.

Scene—Fifth avenue. Two belles meeting on the promenade; rapturous greeting, then a mutual glance at each other's apparel, followed by Amelia (gushingly): "Oh, Irene, where did you get that exquisite trimming for that dear love of a 'jockey?'"

Irene—"Get it! Why don't you know? At Moorhead's, No. 81 Market street, where else could it be had, and I'm just going back to get some for cousin Lulu, who thinks it perfectly bewitching."

Success of the Burdett Organ.

The Prettiest Woman in New York. Miss K——, well known in our fashionable society for her distingue appearance and beautiful complexion, was once a sallow, rough-skinned girl, chagrined at her red, freckled face. She pitched into Hagan's Magnolia Balm, and is now as pretty in complexion as she is charming in manners. This article overcomes freckles, tan, sallowness, moth-patches, ring-marks, etc., and makes one look ten years younger than they are. Magnolia Balm for a transparent complexion, and Lyon's Kathairon to make the hair plentiful, luxuriant, soft and delicate, have no rivals. The Kathairon prevents the hair from turning gray, eradicates dandruff, and is the best and cheapest dressing in the world. TTHS.

Chinese House Servants in St. Louis.

The St. Louis Republican says: "We are informed on trustworthy authority that about one hundred gentlemen, householders of this city, have completed arrangements for the introduction of Chinese house servants into their familes. The necessary negotiations have been consummated with the Chinese Emigration Society in San Francisco, and the first instalment of Chinese for St. Louis, will number about three hundred almond eyed sons of the Flowery Kingdom.

"The housekeepers who have joined in this movement recognize the fact that house servants are exceedingly scarce, and that there is a vacuum to be filled in this species of labor without in the least interfering with an existing class of laborers. They must have reliable servants for washing, cooking and other house-work, and they regard the Chinese as entirely capable of filling the void. They have accordingly agreed with their agents in California to pay them good wages, certain stipulated sums, and to afford them all necessary protection for the term of years for which they are employed. On the other hand, guaranties of good service are given by the Chinese under forfeiture of contract. These arrangements have been very quietly made. In a short time the Chinese will come in here just as quietly, and at once drop into the homes that have been provided for them. There is no necessity for any stir or commotion in any department of industry or labor on their advent in St Louis, because they disturb no one, and merely occupy waste places."

AN ASSOCIATION is in the course of formation in the borough of Lambeth, London, for the purpose of correcting parochial abuses; but its chief aim is to get up a vigorous agitation for the abolition of the Waterloo Bridge toll, which is said to have the effect of annually depreciating to an increasing extent the value of property in Lambeth

IT is stated, by way of comparing the outlay by France and England in the purchase of pictures during the last year, that the former country expended in the twenty-four sections of the Louvre not more than 100,000 fr., while the latter, the National Gallery alone, laid out 209,826fr. AN explosion of a somewhat singular and very destructive character took place lately at a corn mill at Blackburn, England. Three persons were much injured, and property to the amount of several thousands of pounds was destroyed.

THERE is an observatory on Mount Vesuvius, the chief business of whose occupant is to note and measure earthquakes. This is done by the aid of a galvanic battery and a complication of ingenious mechanism. As yet no relation has been traced between earthquakes and eruptions. IN PRESIGNEUX, France, M. Beauvais, the pavement contractor of the town, was taking his daughter, a young lady of seventeen, to school on the 9th, when they were both struck by lightning. The father was only slightly burned on the foot, but his child was struck literally from head to foot; her hair reduced to tinder, her face and body seamed and her shoes split up into rags. She was carried home to the mother whom she had joyously kissed but a few minutes before, and died in the course of the day.

SOME information has been disinterred, says the Pall Mall Gazette, on the subject of the Princess Murat, who formed the connecting link between the Bonaparte and Hohenzollern families. After the 18th Brumaire, the First Consul, in order to recompense Murat for his services, bestowed on him the hand of his sister, Caroline Bonaparte, Murat at the time being a father and a widower. When a lieutenant of chasseurs a cheval, he had married, and a daughter had been born to him in January, 1793. It is from this daughter, Marie Antoinette Murat, born seven years before her father's alliance with the Bonapartes, that Prince Leopold is descended. Murat hardly ever noticed this child, who, in 1808, when only fifteen years old, married the son of the Prince of Hohenzollern, who taken prisoner at Ulm, became her father's friend. In the letter which Murat wrote to his wife shortly before he was shot he spoke most affectionately of his children, with the exception of Marie Antoinette, whose name he did not even mention.

A HORRIBLE tragedy has just been perpetrated at a residence called Casa Taverda, in the valley of Uffetta, Province of Naples. An advocate of Ariano, named Errigo, was staying there with his family for the summer season, and the house having a few days remained closed until the evening, some of the neighbors became alarmed, and, with the authorization of the Mayor, forced open the door. The interior was quite dark, the shutters having been closed and barred, and on a light being procured, a most fearful spectacle presented itself, the husband, wife and five children lying dead, shot through the head or breast with a revolver. The eldest of these last was Grazia, a girl of fifteen, part of whose head had been shot away, and the youngest was an infant of a few months, killed in the arms of its mother, whose body was lying against the wall in a corner of one of the rooms. The father, stretched on the bed, still held in his hand the arm with which he had accomplished this frightful butchery. The motive for the crime is unknown. The man was highly esteemed by his fellow-citizens, and, as he took pleasure in giving advice gratis to the poor, he was received with great deference by the people whenever he walked out.

Poe not the Author of the Raven.

Mr. J. Shaver, of Burlington, New Jersey, writes as follows to a gentleman of New Orleans:

"This place is just now attracting a great deal of attention from antiquarians and litterateurs generally, on account of a discovery lately made by me. I happened to notice in Littel's Living Age, of January 8th last, page 105, the following paragraph:

"'It has just come to light that in an old barn in one of the villages of New Jersey, is a valuable collection of books and manuscripts, formerly forming a part of the library of Mahlon Dickerson, an American statesman. They are all in the possession of the rats, and of a man who will not let them be touched, because of some family quarrel about property.'

"Having often heard that such documents existed in Burlington and were in the hands of Mr. John T. Tompkins, I requested and obtained permission to examine them, and among them found and copied a portion of a letter from Edgar A. Poe to Mr. Daniels, of Philadelphia, dated Richmond, September 29, 1849, in which an admission is made that will, to a certain extent, upset that person's claim to the authorship of the 'Raven.' I could not make out all of the writing on account of its age and neglected condition, but what I could decipher was in these words:

"Shortly before the death of our good friend, Samuel Fenwick, he sent to me from New York for publication a most beautiful and thrilling poem, which he called the 'Raven,' wishing me, before printing it, to 'see if it had merit,' and to make any alterations that might appear necessary. So perfect was it in all its parts that the slightest improvement seemed to me impossible. But you know a person very often depricates his own talents, and he even went so far as to suggest that in this instance, or in any future pieces he might contribute, I should revise and print them in my own name to insure their circulation. This proposal I rejected, of course, and one way or other, delayed printing the 'Raven' until as you knew, it came out in the 'Review,' and —— It was published when I was, unfortunately, intoxicated, and not knowing what I did. I signed my name to it, and thus it went to the printer and was published.

"The sensation it produced made me dishonest enough to conceal the name of the real author, who had died, as you know, some time before it came out, and by that means I now enjoy all the credit and applause myself. I simply make this statement to you for the ——. I shall probably go to New York to morrow, but will be back by October 12, I think.'"

Electro-Typographic Machine.

A new electro typographic machine, the invention of M. Henri Fontaine, a French barrister, is now at work in one of the public offices in Paris. The object of this machine is to print off with economy and rapidity the quantity of short papers required in law courts, public and private offices, or commercial houses, now executed by the longer and more expensive processes of printing or autography. The machine of M. Fontaine, like the electric telegraph, is on the principle of substituting fixed for movable types, one type only being employed for the same letter; thus dispensing with the ponderous bulky movable types of the printer. Steel types, representing the different characters used in printing (capitals, small letters, italics, &c.,) are ranged around two horrizontal discs, placed one over the other. Above these is another metallic circle divided into notches corresponding with the type below. By a very simple machinery, as the handle or bar in the centre presses against the notch representing the letter required, an electric shock lowers the type upon a sheet of paper rolled around a cylinder placed beneath, prints the letter, and again returns to its place. The operation is so rapidly performed that a hundred letters may be easily printed in a minute. When completed the paper is transferred to a lithographic stone to be worked off. The great recommendation of M. Fontaine's machine is its great simplicity, the ease and rapidity with which it is worked, its convenient size (about three feet by two,) and its moderate cost. The typography is remarkably clear and distinct, from the employment of finely engraved steel types.

A Movement Toward the Completion of St. Paul's Cathedral after the Design of Sir Christopher Wren.

A large and influential meeting was held yesterday afternoon, at the Mansion House, presided over by the Lord Mayor, to further the movement on foot for the completion of St Paul's. A model of the choir representing the altar which it is proposed to set up at the east end was exhibited in one of the ante-rooms and attracted considerable attention. The design of the altar is in accordance with what is believed to be Wren's original idea as described by him in one of his last letters, when he said that the painting and gilding of the Church over the Communion table was intended to serve only until such time as materials could be procured for a magnificent design of an altar, consisting of four pillars of the richest marble, supporting a canopy appropriately decorated. The four pillars as represented in the mode are similar in design to the pillars in one of Raphael's cartoons. The Lord Mayor opened the proceedings by stating they had met to inaugurate a national movement—the preservation of the greatest Protestant monument England possessed. None, he said, who entered St. Paul's could fail to be struck by its coldness, its want of finish, and even its want of cleanliness—characteristics which did not at all correspond with the architect's original plan. The object for which the meeting had been called was to make a determined effort to alter this. London had made one or two nibbles at the work, but now it was resolved to complete it by a national movement.—London Times.

METAPHYSICIANS have long disputed whether the earth was made for man, or man was made for the earth, but no one disputes that Pier, Dannals & Co.'s cream ale was made for all mankind.

THE Pope visited a few days back the studio of the sculptor, Filippo Guaccarini, to see the model of the colossal statue of St. Peter, presented to his Holiness, and which is to be cast in bronze, and erected on the Janiculum, in memory of the Ecumenical Council. The Holy Father expressed his entire satisfaction with the work.

PROPOSALS FOR

Stamped Envelopes and Newspaper Wrappers.

POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT, July 11, 1870.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received until 12 o'clock M., on the 11th DAY OF AUGUST, 1870, for furnishing all the "Stamped Envelopes" and "Newspaper Wrappers," which this Department may require during a period of four (4) years, commencing on the 1st day of October, 1870, viz.:

STAMPED ENVELOPES.

No. 1. Note size, 2¾ by 5¼ inches—two qualities.

No. 2. Ordinary letter size, 3 1-16 by 5½ inches—three qualities.

No. 3. Full letter size, 3¼ by 5⅝ inches—three qualities.

No. 4. Full letter size, (for circulars,) ungummed on flap, 3¼ by 5⅝ inches—one quality.

No. 5. Extra letter size, 3½ by 6⅛ inches—three qualities.

No. 6. Extra letter size, 3½ by 6⅛ inches, (for circulars,) ungummed on flap—one quality.

No. 7. Official size, 3 15-16 by 8⅞ inches—two qualities.

No. 8. Extra official size, 4⅜ by 10⅜ inches—one quality.

STAMPED NEWSPAPER WRAPPERS.

Six and a five-eighths by 9¾ inches (round cut.)—one quality.

EMBOSSING, WATER MARKS, PRINTING, RULING, PAPER, STYLE OF MANUFACTURE.

All of the above Envelopes and Wrappers must be embossed with postage stamps, of such denominations, styles and colors, must have such watermarks or other devices to prevent imitation, and bear such printing and ruling as the Postmaster General may direct. The envelopes must be made in the most thorough manner, equal in every respect to the samples furnished to bidders by the Department. The paper must be of approved quality, specially manufactured for the purpose.

Whenever envelopes are ordered of the styles known as "Black-lined" or "Self-ruled," (lines printed inside or ruled on the face) the same shall be furnished without additional cost, the contractor to pay all charges for royalty in the use of patented inventions for said lined or ruled envelopes.

DIES.

The dies for embossing the postage stamps on the envelopes and wrappers are to be executed to the satisfaction of the Postmaster General, in the best style, and they are to be provided, renewed, and kept in order at the expense of the contractor. The Department reserves the right of requiring new dies for any stamps or denominations of stamps not now used, and any changes of dies or colors shall be made without extra charge.

Before closing a contract the successful bidder may be required to prepare and submit new dies for the approval of the Department. The use of the present dies may or may not be continued.

The dies shall be safely and securely kept by the contractor, and should the use of any of them be temporarily or permanently discontinued, they shall be promptly turned over to the Department, or its agent, as the Postmaster General may direct.

GUM.

The envelopes must be thoroughly and perfectly gummed, the gumming on the flap of each (except for circulars) to be put on by hand not less than half an inch the entire length; the wrappers to be also hand-gummed not less than three-fourths of an inch in width across the end.

SECURITY FROM FIRE AND THEFT.

Bidders are notified that the Department will require, as a condition of the contract, that the envelopes and wrappers shall be manufactured and stored in such a manner as to insure security against loss by fire or theft.

The manufactory must at all times be subject to the inspection of an agent of the Department, who will require the stipulations of the contract to be faithfully observed.

PACKING.

All envelopes and wrappers must be banded in parcels of twenty-five, and packed in strong pasteboard or straw boxes, securely bound on all the edges and corners with cotton or linen cloth glued on, each to contain not less than two hundred and fifty of the note and letter sizes, and one hundred each of the official or extra official size, separately. The newspaper wrappers to be packed in boxes, to contain not less than two hundred and fifty each. The boxes are to be wrapped and securely fastened in strong manilla paper, and sealed, so as to safely bear transportation by mail for delivery to postmasters. When two thousand or more envelopes are required to fill the order of a postmaster, the straw or pasteboard boxes containing the same must be packed in strong wooden cases, well strapped with hoop-iron, and addressed; but when less than two thousand are required, proper labels of direction, to be furnished by an agent of the Department, must be placed upon each package by the contractor. Wooden cases, containing envelopes or wrappers, to be transported by water routes, must be provided with suitable water-proofing. The whole to be done under the inspection and direction of an agent of the Department.

DELIVERY.

The envelopes and wrappers must be furnished and delivered with all reasonable dispatch, complete in all respects ready for use, and in such quantities as may be required to fill the daily orders of postmasters; the deliveries to be made either at the Postoffice Department, Washington, D. C., or at the office of an agent duly authorized to inspect and receive the same; the place of delivery to be at the option of the Postmaster General, and the cost of delivering, as well as all expense of storing, packing, addressing, labeling and water-proofing to be paid by the contractor.

SAMPLES.

Specimens of the envelopes and wrappers for which proposals are invited, showing the different qualities and colors of paper required, the cuts, and style of gumming, with blank forms of bids, may be had on application to the Third Assistant Postmaster General.

This advertisement and a specimen of the sample envelopes and wrapper furnished by the Department must be attached to and made part of each bid.

GUARANTEE.

No proposal will be considered unless offered by a manufacturer of envelopes, and accompanied by a satisfactory guarantee signed by at least two responsible parties.

AWARD—AGREEMENT—BONDS.

The contract will be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder for all the envelopes and wrappers, the prices to be calculated on the basis of the number used of the several grades during the last fiscal year, which was as follows:

Note size	1,468,250
Letter size, first quality	60,467,500
Letter size, second quality	8,956,750
Letter size, second quality (ungummed)	3,618,000
Extra letter size, first quality	5,815,750
Extra letter size, second quality (ungummed)	454,000
Official size	569,900
Extra official size	3,100
Newspaper wrappers	4,936,250
Total	86,289,500

Within ten days after the contract has been awarded the successful bidder shall enter into an agreement in writing with the Postmaster General to faithfully observe and keep the terms, conditions, and requirements set forth in this advertisement, according to their true intent and meaning, and shall make, execute, and deliver, subject to the approval and acceptance of the Postmaster General, bonds with good and sufficient sureties in the sum of Two Hundred Thousand Dollars ($200,000) as a forfeiture for the faithful performance of said agreement or contract according to the provisions and subject to the liabilities of the seventeenth section of an act of Congress entitled "An act legalizing and making appropriations for such necessary objects as have been usually included in the general appropriation bills, without authority of law, and to fix and provide for certain incidental expenses of the Departments and offices of the Government, and for other purposes." (United States Statutes at Large, vol. 5, page 256,) approved August 26, 1842; which act provides "that in case the contractor shall fail to comply with the terms of his contract, "he and his sureties shall be liable for the forfeiture specified in such contract as liquidated damages, to be sued for in the name of the United States, in any court having jurisdiction thereof."

RESERVATIONS.

The Postmaster General reserves to himself the following rights:

1. To reject any and all bids, if, in his judgment, the interests of the Government require it.

2. To annul the contract whenever the same or any part thereof is offered for sale for the purpose of speculation; and under no circumstances will a transfer of the contract be allowed or sanctioned to any party who shall be, in the opinion of the Postmaster General, less able to fulfill the conditions thereof than the original contractor.

3. To annul the contract, if, in his judgment, there shall be a failure to perform faithfully any of its stipulations, or in case of a willful attempt to impose upon the Department Envelopes or Wrappers inferior to sample.

4. If the contractor to whom the first award may be made should fail to enter into agreement and give satisfactory bonds, as herein provided, then the award may be annulled and the contract let to the next lowest responsible bidder, and so on until the required agreement and bonds are executed; and such next lowest bidder shall be required to fulfill every stipulation embraced herein as if he were the original party to whom the contract was awarded.

BIDS

Should be securely enveloped and sealed, marked "Proposals for Stamped Envelopes a Newspaper Wrappers;" and addressed to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Washington, D. C.
